England's Plan
How Does Canada Do It?
All Were Once Killers
Japan Won't Attack Us

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

GREAT BRITAIN, with a Labor Prime Minister, proposes to show that lack of employment can be avoided. Instead of paying men to do nothing with "unemployment pay," public work will be created, and men will be put at it.

We should call that Socialism here.

SECRETARY DAVIS tells the President that payrolls here are improving. Nine thousand establishments in the United States increased by 3.7 per cent. the amount paid to 2,500,000 men and women. Secretary Davis says this is "a business revival," 'the first he ever saw in a political campaign.

We are doing fairly well in America. May it last.

LA FOLLETTE'S SON says Canada has reduced freight rates on agricultural products to prices prevailing before the war. And she pays her railroad men as well as we pay them in this country. Also note that railways owned by the Canadian people have changed a deficit of thirty-seven millions in 1921 under private management to a surplus of more than twenty millions in 1923, under government management. How do you explain THAT.

Here the government can't manage everything apparently. It can't even manage to keep its own high employes from stealing its own naval oil reserves.

LUCKILY, the United States can afford to be robbed in divers ways. The Treasury did a business of more than a billion dollars in one day recently. It would be interesting to know the real income of the United States. More than one hundred billion a year probably.

THE HEAD of the Chicago University sees in young Loeb and Leopold a strange puzzle. There is no great puzzle about it. Men living today carry, buried within them, memory of days when killing was a pleasure and torture a matter of course.

If Cyrus, a really great king, could write calmly of another defeated king, "I cut off his nose and his lips and chained him at my gate," what wonder that horrible brutality crops out here and there a few centuries later.

The wonder is that it is so rare.

THOSE WORRIED about Japan attacking the United States—because we decline to have this country colonized by Asiatics—should remember these facts:

In one week three steamers have unloaded $20,000,000 worth of silk, including raw silk, at the port of Seattle. The Japanese, good business people, won't attack a country of which one single port can absorb twenty million dollars' worth of their product in a week.

IN JAPAN a man will be tried soon for an attack on the life of the Prince Regent. In all the history of Japan there have been only two attempts to murder the nation's ruler. The other occurred eighteen years ago, when a bomb was thrown at the Mikado Meiji. Then seventy radicals were sentenced to death.

The man soon to be tried will be executed undoubtedly. A few years ago his crime would have been punished with a refined ingenuity beyond the wildest dreams of Gilbert and Sullivan.

THERE ARE NOW regular quotations for counterfeit notes. The average price is $20 for $100 worth of bogus bills. The market is stabilized by the demand for such money, used by bootleggers in buying liquor from the rum fleet, sent by our British brothers.

The managers of the boats are good bootleggers, but not familiar with American money, and many, it seems, have been taking bad money for worse whiskey—which seems fair enough.

MR. WHEELER, a La Follette Vice-Presidential candidate,

GIRL'S CALL IS MYSTERY IN CLAPP SUICIDE

PHONED TO RELATIVE'S HOME AND HOTEL

Capitalist's Death in the Back Bay Followed by Hysterical Talk by Unknown

Mystery and a shrieking hysterical young woman, whose cries over the telephone, startled persons standing many feet away, entered today into the strange suicide of Gilmer Clapp, Boston capitalist, in his apartment at the Hotel Braemore, No. 468 Commonwealth avenue.

Friends of the capitalist had been notified of his death only a short time when a woman with a youthful voice that trembled called the hotel and asked if the report she had heard was true.

When a confirmatory answer was given there was silence for a brief instant. Then a hysterical shriek came over the telephone, to be followed by another.

Persons conversing in the lobby many feet distant from the instrument turned, startled at the sounds. But when the clerk spoke again into the transmitter there was no sound but the hum of the wires.

The police are searching for the young woman who sent a mysterious telephone message to Waltham concerning the suicide of Mr. Clapp. It is thought this woman may have been a friend of the deceased.

Before Medical Examiner Magrath could notify the mother and sister of Clapp at No. 39 Linden street, Waltham, someone else had telephoned the details with the result that both Mrs. Clapp and her daughter left their home hurriedly.

Among most of his intimates Gilmer Clapp was believed to be a single man and without a love affair. Some of his older friends declare, however, that he was married twenty-five years ago to one Jeanette M. Morrison of Portland and that it was understood she divorced him three years ago.

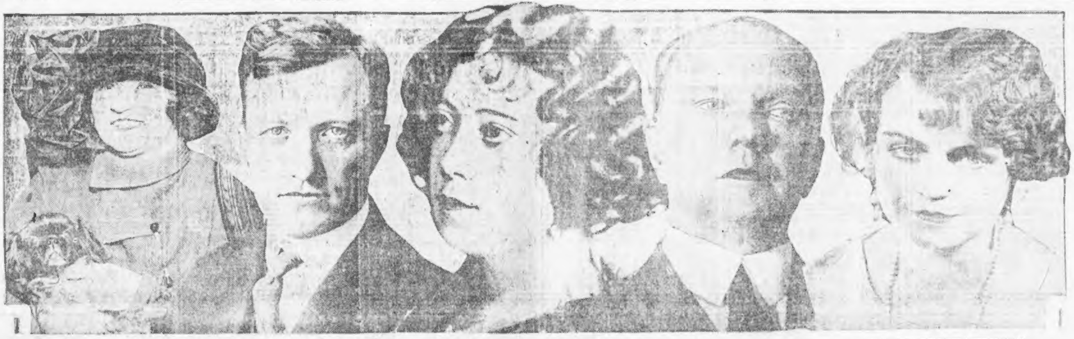
Latest Gem Theft on Broadway May Lead to Clews That Will Solve Mysterious Murders of "Dot" King and Louise Lawson



EDITH BOBE, GERHARDT M. DAHL, LOUISE LAWSON, J. KEARSLEY MITCHELL, "DOT" KING

Apprehension of the four men who robbed Miss Bobe in the latest New York butterfly mystery, may lead to the solving of the murders of "Dot" King and Louise Lawson, shown above. In all three cases the victim of the assault and robbery was friendly with a wealthy man. Louise Lawson's friendship for Gerhardt M. Dahl, Brooklyn Traction magnate, shown above, was revealed after her death. "Dot" King's friend was J. Kearsley Mitchell, son-in-law of E. E. Stotesbury. Mitchell was the mysterious "Mr. Marshall" who figured as the slain Butterfly's "deary sugar papa." Miss Bobe, when she was assaulted and robbed the other day, was escorted by Robert L. Hague, wealthy Standard Oil Company official.

TAKE SOUTH END GUNMAN; IDENTIFIED AS SHOOTER

Charles Reilly, alias Edward Simpson, alias Healey was arrested today at No. 621 Massachusetts avenue, South End, as the gunman who shot and seriously wounded Special Officer David M. McCarthy in the South End.

Reilly made no attempt to escape when Patrolman William Collins of the East Dedham street station, acting on a "tip," went to the house and arrested the alleged assailant.

In municipal court, Judge Bennett held Reilly for hearing on Sept. 29 in $10,000. He was charged with

"I'M FAR FROM DONE," SAYS W. M. WOOD

By HARRY A. BENWELL

"They may have my resignation any time they want it, but I am far from done."

This was the reply made by William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company, to charges that he had resigned and was seriously ill.

It was made exclusively to the Boston American at Mr. Wood's Summer home on the Island of Cuttyhunk, Buzzards Bay.

Mr. Wood returns to Shawsheen Village this week to resume active control of the great industry which he has built up.

He was located in the living room of his beautiful house, situated on the brow of a hill overlooking Buzzards Bay.

When seen by the Boston American representative Mr. Wood was seated at a writing table, making notes for a conference with Robert Wallace of the Woolen Company, who arrived later in the day.

Although showing signs of the illness from which he is now practically recovered, the head of the Ameri-

WORLD FLIERS ARE OFF ON FLIGHT TO OMAHA

U. S. Mailfield, Maywood, Ill., Sept. 17. (A.P.)—The army 'round-the-world fliers hopped off from the Air Mail Field at 8.11 a. m., on the next stage of the journey, the 440-mile flight to Omaha. Flying conditions were ideal and Lieutenant Lowell Smith, the commander, said he expected to reach Fort Crook Field, Omaha, in about six hours.

The three planes quickly were in formation and at an altitude of about 500 feet headed into the West. They planned a straight course to Davenport, Iowa. They will pass over Iowa City, Des Moines, and thence into the regular air mail route to Omaha.

SEEK JEWEL-ROBBING GANG FOR "DOT" KING CLEW

New York, Sept. 17.—The similarity between the $50,000 jewel robbery in the home of Miss Edith Bobe, wealthy modiste, and recent "Broadway butterfly killings," caused the police to throw every available resource of the department into the search for the robbers.

They believe the apprehension of the leader of this band will solve the mystery of the killing of Dorothy King and Louise Lawson.

Police have been furnished with a description of one of the men who ransacked Miss Bobe's elaborately furnished apartment after threatening to shoot her escort, Robert L. Hague, wealthy Standard Oil Company official, if he attempted to interfere.

They were said to be shadowing a man, well known on Broadway, who will be questioned about all three cases if he is apprehended, it was said.

Hague and Miss Bobe have visited police headquarters and looked at

SCHOONER YACHT FAME IS FLOATED FROM BEACH

Sandwich, Sept. 17.—The schooner yacht Fame, owned by H. I. Sewall of New York, was pulled off the beach near here today by the crew of the coast guard station. The vessel, bound from Marblehead to Newport and New York, anchored off shore, but drifted landward in a gale. The owner and crew remained on board.

The vessel was apparently undamaged and proceeded on her way.

HUB WOMAN FORGER SAYS WOMEN CAUSED HER FALL

Woman's inhumanity to and distrust of woman; that is what caused the downfall of Margaret Harte, former Boston nurse, who has just started a five-year stretch in Auburn Reformatory in New York.

Miss Harte is a clever confidence woman. She was graduated from a Boston hospital in 1901. Now she is forty-one years old. Passing bad checks was her specialty.

Men were easy, the former nurse confessed, as she stood before a New York magistrate to be sentenced.

"They all fall for a woman, and cash checks for her without a murmur, although they never saw her before," she said.

"Women, though, are different. They have caused all the trouble I have ever had. Woman distrusts woman."

STEAMSHIP IS STRIPPED BY PIRATE

A sensational story of a pirate who stripped the French steamship Mulhouse of 1,000 cases of champagne and liquor on the high seas was contained in dispatches from Paris today.

French detectives, after a relentless search that carried them into the United States, through the bootleggers' ranks and over half the European continent, closed on their quarry today and arrested Jerome Max Phaff, a naturalized American citizen, born in Germany.

First report of the sensational piracy was contained today in an Associated Press dispatch.

Phaff is charged formally with piracy in connection with the hold-up of the freighter off the American coast last July.

Detectives expect to locate other members of the pirate crew through Phaff.

It was the American's sudden dis-

CONFESSES PLAN TO KILL LOCATELLI

New York, Sept. 17.—Anthony Cioffo, captured after a policeman was stabbed three times with a stiletto while defending Lieutenant Antonio Locatelli, the Italian aviator, from the attack of a mob, today confessed that he intended to kill the aviator, according to the police. Cioffo admitted being a member of the I. W. W. and said that he had come from Chicago to kill Locatelli because of the airman's Fascisti activities, the police said. The prisoner was subdued and placed under arrest after Patrolman Edward Trumph had been stabbed in the neck, the right chest and right side.

tion of his supposed marital experience, no information has been obtained regarding the wife, and the mystery of the woman who shrieked is a deep puzzle to his intimates.

Clapp, head of the American Pneumatic Service Company and former financial secretary to Governor Oliver Ames, sent a bullet into his brain between conferences with a representative of the First National Bank.

The financier, during the first conference, had given no outward sign that would indicate a disturbed state of mind. When the bank man returned to the hotel for a resumption of the conference, however, Clapp was found dead on the bathroom floor in his suite.

NOTE TO SISTER

By his side was a .38-calibre revolver. He left a note, apparently hastily scribbled, which he addressed to his sister, Miss Beatrice Clapp, who resides with her mother at No. 39 Linden street, Waltham. [illegible] several large estates of people prominent in Boston social life.

Following the death of Governor Ames, the capitalist was named executor and trustee of the estate. He had never given hint of financial trouble, although his concern suffered a severe setback when the postoffice department discontinued use of the pneumatic mail tubes.

Four years ago, also, the concern lost $193,000 in securities stolen from its safe at No. 100 Boylston street.

IN MANY COMPANIES

Clapp was born in Boston Nov. 4, 1864, son of James Hall and Harriet B. (Foster) Clapp. He was educated in private schools. He began his career in the office of F. S. Moseley & Co., bankers and brokers. He remained with them for five years, from 1888 to 1893. Then he became financial secretary to Gov. Oliver Ames.

He was president, treasurer and a director of the American Pneumatic Service Company and was connected in an official capacity with the Boston Pneumatic Transit Company, the Lamson Consolidated Store Service Company, the American Trust Company, Commercial National Bank, Ames Shovel & Tool Company, Mutual District Messenger Company, New York Pneumatic Service Company, South Side Plantation Company, St. Louis Pneumatic Service Company, Union Copper Mining Company, Chicago Postal Pneumatic Service Company and the Calaveras Copper Company.

ISOLATED FOREST TOWN AGAIN FIRE SWEPT

Kane, Pa., Sept. 17 (I.N.S.)—The little village of Marienville, thirty miles from here, for the third time in four years, is the victim of fire today. This morning calls for assistance came from the lonely forest town. At that time the main hostelry and several other buildings were ablaze.

Since the first report nothing has been learned as to the plight of the town or its people as all communication has been cut off.

can Woolen Company is far from the physical wreck which rumor has pictured.

Because of his physician's orders he did not engage in an extended discussion, but it was evident he retained his old-time incisiveness and grasp of affairs.

Told that rumor has his resignation in the hands of the directors and that he was practically done, Mr. Wood waved his hands angrily.

"It makes me d—— mad," he snapped. "A man can't go away for a good time and a rest without people making trouble.

"I'm not out of the American Woolen Company and as far as I'm concerned I'm not likely to be. If the directors want my resignation they can have it, but I'm far from done.

"It's the same situation as that which existed a year ago. An attempt is being made to force down the stock of the company and drive the small stockholders out.

"I can't do anything about these rumors except to say that I'm far from through. I'm glad your newspaper has taken interest enough in me to find out the truth."

Later Mr. Wood was driven down to the pier to meet Mr. Wallace and a physician who had come down to give him a final examination preparatory to his return.

He has spent the biggest part of the Summer at Cuttyhunk, where the sea air and sunshine have done much for his health. Today he came back to Boston assault and battery with a revolver, with intent to kill.

During his arraignment, the alleged gunman denied any participation in the affair. He said the last he saw of "Irish" Collins, alias Connolly, was four hours before Officer McCarthy was shot down. McCarthy was seeking Collins at the time of the shooting that resulted in Reilly's arrest today.

At the station house he was identified by Frederick Gill of No. 38 Newcome street, South End, into whose home McCarthy's assailant fled after firing the four shots.

LIVES IN SOUTH BOSTON.

Gill drove him off with an ice pick. The fleeing man dropped a revolver containing four exploded cartridges of the calibre used to shoot McCarthy.

McCarthy, himself, was too weak to identify Reilly.

Reilly gave his address as No. 75½ Seventh street, South Boston.

"Irish" Collins, alias Connolly, whom McCarthy was seeking at the time of the shooting, is still being sought by the police.

The shooting of McCarthy marked what police hope is the crest of a crime wave which has spread over Greater Boston in the past week.

In this time two police officers have been shot, the other victim being Robert Fitzgerald of Waltham.

Twenty-nine homes have been broken into and more than $10,000 worth of property stolen.

CORNELIUS HORGAN.

He is nineteen years old and lives in Malden, and was carrying a revolver when arrested near Rowes Wharf. Patrolman Robert Fitzgerald of Waltham declares he is the man who shot him.

pictures in the rogues' gallery. It was said they were unable to make an identification.

It was learned that Miss Bobe formerly lived near the studio where Dorothy King was killed, and it was said she knew many of the slain model's friends.

Miss Bobe was said to have expressed the desire to be known as the "most bejeweled woman in the world."

The wealthy modiste's home where the robbery occurred, is a four-story house in a fashionable neighborhood. The main floor is used as a reception room, kitchen and barroom.

The barroom is fitted up with minute attention to detail. Not even the sawdust that graced the floor of the old time saloon is omitted in her quest of "atmosphere." In the rear of the house is an Italian garden carefully planned.

The second floor is used for a living room and music room, with a great deal of space arranged for dancing. The bedrooms are on the third floor, while above that is the shop where eighteen girls are employed.

Polish Beauty Studies for Year to Learn Ways of Society

Felton's Shoe Worker Bride-to-Be Takes Up Golf and Horsemanship

(Photo by Barry Studio, Salem)

SOFIA SZCYCHOWICZ

Beautiful shoe factory operative whose romance with William S. Felton has all Salem buzzing. She is to be married to Felton in Salem, on Saturday next.

Sofia Szcychowicz, pretty eighteen-year-old shoe operative of Salem, has served a social apprenticeship in order to become the bride on Saturday of William Sidney Felton, wealthy Harvard graduate, war veteran and clubman and scion of one of the most exclusive North Shore families.

The Polish beauty has been received into the family of Felton and has been groomed as a lady for a whole year, not at the request of her fiance's folk but because of her own ambition.

Soffia has learned to play golf, has taken lessons in horsemanship and has otherwise polished herself off for the social demands that will be made upon her as daughter-in-law of William S. Felton, millionaire stock broker and real estate operative.

FULL OF AMBITION.

Sofia Szcychowicz always wanted to be a lady and to accomplish something more than the ordinary in life. She told classmates so when she was a pupil in St. John's School for Polish girls in Salem. She seemed so earnest in her ambitions that her friends were not nearly so surprised as were those of the fashionable set to learn that she was to be wife of "Billy" Felton.

And no sooner were they engaged than Sofia religiously devoted herself to the routine that has helped give her the grace and poise of a lady. Sofia's school and shopmates say she was always rather refined and blessed with confidence. And she had always pursued her studies.

So when the wealthy Billy Felton first admired her from a distance and later was introduced to her at Lynn Beach, where both went swimming, he found Sofia anything but abashed. He found she later met his friends with a grace that inwardly pleased him.

And from the time the engagement was publicly announced about a year ago intimates of Sofia began to notice the change in her.

BUYS TROUSSEAU.

She was working at a bench in Ryan's shoe factory in Peabody when they met. She continued to work there until a few months ago when the Feltons invited her to be their guest at the new Summer mansion which they bought recently at Centre Harbor, N. H.

Sofia spent a month there and on her return devoted her time to preparation for the nuptials. She has been busy shopping in Boston every day getting her trousseau ready. And while she is thus engaged her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Szcychowicz of No. 11 Essex street, go to work every day as spinners in Naumkeag mill, where they have toiled for years to bring up their family of six, two daughters and four sons.

Joseph Szcychowicz and his wife are respected in the big Polish colony along the North Shore. They have been industrious and frugal, and they have given their children good educations. They saved enough to buy a two-family home at No. 5 Phillips street, North Salem. This home they sold two weeks ago and bought a more modern two-family house at the lower end of Essex street near the water edge.

Their new home is being painted and made spic and span for the wedding celebration that will follow the ceremoney at noon on Saturday in the fashionable Grace Episcopal Church near the Felton homestead. The Feltons occupy a mansion at No. 375 Essex street, the aristocratic end of the historic thoroughfare, and Sofia's parents live at the clean, but humbler end of the street.

PARENTAL BLESSINGS.

Sofia Szcychowicz had a high school education before going to work. Her younger brothers are in school now. They get their own dinner because their parents don't return from the mill until night.

Sofia and her sister, Mary, who has been married but now lives with her parents, drove around in a smart closed car which neighborhood rumor has it was one of Billy Felton's gifts to Sofia.

He takes Sofia driving every day in his car and she has been seen in the Felton family limousine with her future parents-in-law. Mrs. Felton has visited Sofia's parents. The young couple enjoy parental blessings of both households.

William Sidney Felton practices law in Boston. He was graduated from Harvard in 1915, from Harvard Law School three years later and served as an ensign in the United States Navy aviation service during the World War.

BURY PRINCESS RADZIWILL IN ROXBURY

Princess Radzwill, who was killed by a fall from a cliff at Mt. Kineo, Me., was buried today in a specially-purchased lot in St. Joseph's Cemetery, in Roxbury.

There was something about the simple funeral of the Chicago girl, whose marriage to the late Prince Landislas Radzwill of Poland made her internationally prominent, in keeping with the tragedy of her romance.

There were only ten mourners at the solem high requiem mass celebrated at 10 o'clock in St. James Church on Harrison avenue. The service was attended by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Simpson of Chicago, her two brothers and her sister, all of whom had been Summering with her in Maine.

Back several pews from the family sat Mrs. Fred J. Driscoll of Newton, Miss May Driscoll and Miss Lillian Bateman. They had spent their vacation at the same hotel and had formed a friendship for the Princess.

[illegible] E. Lee was celebrant, Rev. Albert Shea, deacon, and Rev. [illegible] sub-deacon. [illegible] was at the organ. The soloists were Miss Elizabeth [illegible] soprano, and Miss Anna G. [illegible] contralto.

Friends of the family explained that the burial and funeral took place in Boston, instead of from the family [illegible] cause the Princess and her parents had met [illegible] spending his vacation at the Mt. Kineo House and had become deeply impressed by him.

[illegible] Radzwill was Helen Simpson. Her father is a wealthy surgeon in Chicago. The Princess was twenty-nine years of age and married Prince Landislas Radzwill of Poland two hours before his death from pneumonia, in London.

DUTCH CHARLIE FOUND DEAD IN HERMIT HUT

Romance, with its thin veneer, has been wiped finally from the black memory of "Dutch Charlie."

But "Dutch Charlie," whose real name is Charles Shermer, had to die in the winning of his victory over remembrance. He was found dead today in his hermit's huit he had occupied for twenty-five years in the woods off Chestnut street, Weston.

"Dutch Charlie" had been dead presumably for several days before Nelson Clark, a neighbor, bethought himself to try the door of the hut today and found it locked.

When Patrolman Biles had broken the door, the body was found on the floor. A leather bag containing $565 was around the neck inside the clothing. It represented Shermer's entire life's accomplishment.

Twenty-five years ago he first appeared in the hut. From whence he came no one knew. Since that time neighbors picked up rumors of an unfortunate marriage and a wife and family somewhere in Connecticut. The police are endeavoring to locate them.

FINEST GLORY OF WOMAN STILL WINS

Beauty Judge Sheds Light on Selections at Atlantic City

The women of America have settled the question of "To bob or not to bob" by bobbing their hair. But the relative artistic merits of long tresses vs. bobbed hair is still an open question. The subjoined description of the recent Atlantic City Beauty Pageant discloses some interesting facts on this subject.

By WILL FOSTER

Famous artist and member of the Committee of Judges at the Atlantic City Beauty Pageant.

Since the world began a woman's beauty, although skin deep, has upset kingdoms, I am told, and has caused more than one war.

GREAT PAGEANT.

It was the cause also of the greatest pageant ever held anywhere and has attracted thousands to this pageant at Atlantic City—truly "the playground of the world." Out of seventy beauties the pick of the seventy cities, of the United States.

It was given to fifteen of us the task of selecting the most beautiful one among them to be called "Miss America." On the stage of the school auditorium we threshed out the problem of selecting five from the fifteen girls that were still in the running after the elimination.

ONE BOBBED.

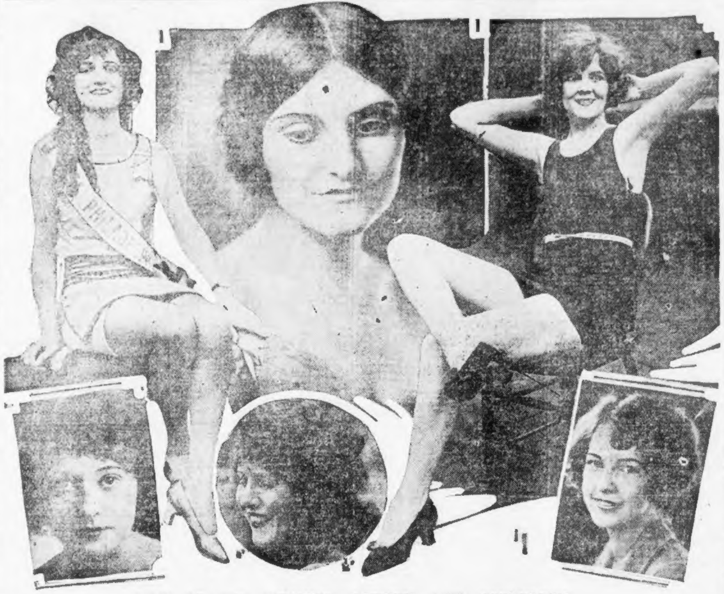
All of these girls but one had long hair, and the only bobbed-haired girl, Miss Manhattan, had a lovely French bob, so perfect it gave the illusion of being long.

Hairdressers, listen in! Almost all of the contestants were bobbed-haired girls. It was a distinct triumph of woman's crowning glory over the bob.

2 YOUTHFUL BANDITS SENTENCED TO HANG

Baltimore, Sept. 17.—Claude Dobbs, nineteen, of Baltimore and Thomas J. Foran, eighteen, of Philadelphia, bandits who on May 13 robbed and murdered Louis Cohen, Baltimore jeweler, were sentenced to be hanged by Judges Gorter, Stanton and Frank in Criminal Court here today. Charles Mullen, eighteen, was sentenced to life imprisonment. George Gross, eighteen, a fourth member of the band was killed by detectives when he attempted to escape from jail two months ago.

LONG HAIR MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN BOB?



SOME BEAUTY WINNERS, BOBBED AND UNBOBBED

Miss America, Ruth Malcolman, and Miss Boston, Mary M. Prendergast, at top, have beautiful long hair. Miss Mary Carlson, Miss New York, has a beautiful bob. Below are Miss Akron, Miss California, and Miss Ashurst, bobbed, unbobbed and bobbed. The artist judges say long hair is more beautiful. Here's the evidence. What do YOU think?

TIED TO TREE AS HIJACKERS DIG HIS GRAVE

Attleboro, Sept. 17. — The underground influence of the bootlegger menace has gripped a Warren policeman in its toils, according to charges made against Sergeant David S. Marks, railroad policeman, alleged to have accompanied hi-jackers that pulled John Souza of Warren from his home in the dead of night.

An underworld 'police system' for the protection of those who prey on the illicit trade is revealed in a story by three men accused of hi-jacking.

The three under arrest are Souza, Manuel Jardine and Joseph August, all of Warren.

Manuel Nunes of Warren has told the police a story of men breaking into his home, one of the raiders being Sergeant Marks, according to Nunes.

They dragged Souza from his bed, took him to a point within a few hundred feet of the Attleboro line, tied him to a tree and then proceeded to dig his grave, while they threatened him with burial alive if he did not reveal where 200 cases of liquor were hidden.

Souza, terrified with horror, revealed the hiding place and saved his life. The liquor later was stolen by hi-jackers.

The car of the kidnapers, in which they drove Souda to Rehoboth, Mass. after forcing their way into the house of Manuel Nunes, who has admitted storing liquor for the ring, carried a license issued to Sigmund Rand of Central Falls.

Rand was recently accused by Senator Barry of Central Falls, on the Senate floor, of being the king of Rhode Island bootleggers.

As the result of a preliminary investigation into Nunes' charges, the Warren Town Council at a special meeting attended by Town Solicitor William H. McSoley and every member of the police force, ordered that the law be rigidly and impartially enforced in the town, all slot machines removed and patrolmen stationed outside near-beer saloons, if necessary.

POLICE TESTIFY.

Chief of Police Cronin called upon by the Town Solicitor, testified that no complaint was made to him by Nunes of the alleged assault and robbery. As he was preparing warrants for the District Court Nunes came to him and said, "I want you to come down to my house. Someone was there last night."

According to his own testimony, Chief Cronin replied, "I can't go now; I'm too busy." After finishing his court work, however, he testified, he went to the home of Nunes but was unable to gain admittance. He declared that he went there again with Patrolman Northup at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and made a third visit on Monday with the same result.

Patrolman Lewis testified that he went to Nunes' home Sunday morning at 12:05 o'clock on complaint of Mrs. Nunes that a gang of men half an hour previously had battered down the door, ransacked the house, stole $540 and dragged John Souza from his bed. There was no evidence of the ransacking, according to Patrolman Lewis.

play of wealth that first aroused suspicion on the part of the French authorities. Owners of the Mulhouse employed private detectives who obtained traces of the pirates through bootleggers in this country.

Phaff finally was located in London. From there the detectives hunted him down through Antwerp and Brussels into Paris.

When arrested by the detectives, Phaff denied his guilt and the denial, together with the fact that his identification papers gave no evidence of wrong doing, caused the police to hesitate in preferring formal charges.

The Maritime Tribunal of Brest, to whom the piracy was first reported, ordered the Paris police to charge him formally with piracy.

40 IN PERIL WHEN CAMP BUILDING BURNS

Tannersville, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Fire today destroyed the Administration Building of the Recreation Camp of the New York Police Department, seven miles from here, and endangered the lives of forty policemen and their families who were asleep on the upper stories. That the camp was not destroyed was due to the Tannersville volunteer fire department, which made a fast seven mile run along winding mountain roads and rendered assistance.

FITZGERALD IS BOOMING N. E. WEEK BUTTONS

his time free to make New England Week a success.

"I am surprised at the lack of response from the people of New England," said Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald to a Boston American reporter, in commenting on the manner in which the buttons were being so'd.

"We should have no difficulty in getting one million people to join this wonderful booster organization and buy buttons at 10 cents each. Why, there are 6,000,000 people in Greater Boston alone from which to draw!

"Think of the way in which the people of California came to the front and joined a similar organization to boost their State. One million of them paid $1 each to join it. And yet the people of New England hesitate to spend 10 cents for a button! Some of those who buy them do not want to wear them. I can't understand it. We've got to get away from that old-time conservatism.

"We've got some of the finest scenery in the country right here in New England and our products are unexcelled. Why be afraid of telling the world we are proud of all these things?

WOULD TELL WORLD.

"New Englanders who have never seen the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts, the wonderful White Mountains or Dixville Notch, New Hampshore, the marvelous lakes of northern Maine or the wonderful beaches of Cape Cod, insist on taking trips to California and Florida. They are impressed by the cleverly worded advertising matter they have read in magazines and newspapers.

"Why don't we do the same in a large way? We've got the goods; why not tell the world about them?

"I recently toured New England, visiting all these places of which I have spoken, and was really amazed at the beauty of our scenery. The wealthy people of the South and West know how beautiful New England resorts are, for you will find their names on hotel registers at all the best places, season after season.

"The retail stores have done wonderfully well in getting their employes to wear NEW buttons and so has the Boston Elevated and some other organizations but many concerns have been very lax in their enthusiasm for this movement. I wish they would wake up before the week ends and get their employes to join. I want to see one million members in this organization by next Saturday night."

STABBED WHILE PROTECTING LOCATELLI

Policeman Attacked Following Fiery Speeches at a Meeting of "Reds"

New York, Sept. 17.—Patrolman Edward Trumph is in a hospital today with three stiletto wounds, which were inflicted while he was assisting sixty-five other policemen in protecting Lieutenant Antonio Locatelli, the Italian aviator, from a mob outside the Manhattan Opera House. Anthony Cioffo, his alleged assailant, was captured and is being held on a charge of felonious assault.

The disorder was attributed by the police to "fiery speeches made at a gathering of Reds in the city earlier in the night." The demonstration against Locatelli occurred as he was leaving the Opera House, where he had been the guest at a performance by an Italian company.

Locatelli, surrounded by patrolmen, detectives and members of the police bomb squad, had already entered his automobile and was driving away with Patrolman Trumph standing on the running board, when the stabbing took place. The policeman was wounded in the neck, right chest and right side.

While the police dispersed the crowd with their night sticks, Cioffo was subdued by a policeman. He said he recently came here from Chicago and admitted being a member of the I. W. W., according to the police.

Supporters of Locatelli also gathered outside the Opera House shortly before the attack, but the police prevented a clash beween the two factions. There were several scuffles.

COOLIDGE JOINS WITH HUGHES ON NAVY

President Takes Definite Stand Against Big Battleship Appropriation

Washington, Sept. 17 (Universal).—President Coolidge has definitely aligned himself with Secretary of State Hughes and Director of the Budget Lord against further expenditures for battleships, and in favor of increased expenditures for an efficient air fighting fleet.

The chief executive, it was revealed officially, wishes to avoid the principal factor in sea conflicts has been changed.

REBUKE TO NAVY OFFICERS.

The President feels that there would be little logic in spending large sums of money both on battleships and for aviation.

Announcement of the President's position is regarded as a distinct victory for Secretary Hughes, who has steadfastly opposed the program of big battleship construction, and at the same time a rebuke to the high officers of the navy who have been urging the rescue of the navy from the low position into which it has fallen.

The President has been told that, spending any money on battleships, as a result of the world flight by the army airplanes, the practicability of air fighting has been demonstrated and the status of the battleship as $32,174,000 BEING SPENT.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, hastily summoned from California by peremptory orders from the President, is expected to reach the national capital late in the week to discuss the naval budget situation with the chief executive. The head of the Navy Department, according to all indications, will be told the administration's policy in so many words and will be instructed to conduct himself and see to it that his officers conduct themselves accordingly.

Director of the Budget Lord informed the President that $32,174,000 is being spent by the government for aviation. This includes $15,000,000 for the navy, more than $12,000,000 for the army and nearly $3,000,000 for the Postoffice Department.

G. O. P. IN WISCONSIN TURNS ON COOLIDGE

The platform unqualifiedly endorsed the administration of Governor Blaine.

The convention adopted the majority report and rejected a minority report which endorsed the Coolidge-Dawes presidential ticket. The minority report, submitted by Representative Blanchard, was voted down

Spellacy, director of the eastern headquarters of the Democratic national committee. Mr. Spellacy said the Democratic organizations of Kings and New York counties had asked that Mr. Davis also speak at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, on October 29 and at a luncheon to be given by women's Democratic organizations at the Hotel Commodore November 1.

LA FOLLETTE TO HAVE $12,000 "HOUSE"

New York, Sept. 17.—Senator La Follette will speak to a house sold out at theatre prices when he takes the platform in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night for his first New York appearance of the presidential campaign.

New York managers of the La Follette-Wheeler forces, explaining today that reserved seats to the political meetings had been sold at prices ranging from 55 cents to $2.20, said the Senator would speak to "a $12,000 house." The receipts are to be turned into the organization's campaign fund.

It was reported only a few hundred seats remained to be sold of 7,824 placed on sale a week ago. A patient line of men and women stood in the rain today to purchase the remaining seats.

There will be about 7,000 free seats.

La Follette Busy for Week on New York Address

Washington, Sept. 17.—Friends of Senator Robert M. La Follette are wondering whether he will adopt a new style of campaigning when he delivers his first address to an audience since announcing his candidacy for the Presidency at a rally tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden, New York City.

In campaigns of the past, in the Senate and on the Chautauqua platform, the Wisconsin Senator has usually spoken without manuscript or even notes. He familiarized himself thoroughly with his subject, then spoke extemporaneously, as a rule, for two or more hours at a stretch.

For early a week Senator La Follette has been preparing the address he intends to deliver in New York.

Free Europe Tour for Cop Who Was Kind to Leeds

New York, Sept. 17.—William B. Leeds and his wife, the Princess Zenia of Russia, were so impressed by the courtesy and efficiency of John I. McIntyre, a traffic patrolman, who for years has been stationed at the gate of the Cunard line, that they decided to pay the expenses of a six weeks' tour of Europe for the policeman and his wife.

McIntyre, who has been on the force since 1909, had no difficulty in obtaining a leave of absence when he told his superiors of his good fortune.

TWO YOUTHS MUST DIE FOR KILLING JEWELER

Baltimore, Sept. 17.—Thomas Foran, eighteen, of Philadelphia, and Claude Dobbs, nineteen, of Baltimore, were sentenced today to be hanged for the murder of Louis Cohen, a jeweler. Charles Mullen, another Baltimore youth, was given life imprisonment. The bandits had smashed a display window in Cohen's store and were making off with gems valued at approximately $5,000 when the jeweler attempted to stop them. One of them shot Cohen.

FLEISCHMANN DENIES BIG BAKING MERGER

New York, Sept. 17.—Julius Fleischmann, head of the Fleischmann Company, manufacturers of yeast, today denied reports that he was interested in forming a huge merger of baking companies, to include General Baking, Ward Baking and United Bakeries. The recent sharp advances in baking stocks has led Wall Street to believe that a combination of New York concerns was under way. General Baking has risen 30 points in the last week.

GAS STATION ROBBED BY GUNMEN

William T. Wolloff, manager of the Colonial Filling Station, Inc. at No. 885 Center st., Jamaica Plain, was held up at the points of pistols and robbed of his money belt containing about $50.

About an hour before the holdup three men entered the station by the rear door.

Later, the three returned with another man, and pulling pistols on Wolloff, ordered him to throw up his hands and be quick about it.

While three covered him, the fourth took his money.

DARROW CALLED TO SAVE YOUTH FROM NOOSE

Agrees to Assist Chicago Organization Seeking to Stay Execution on October 17

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Clarence Darrow, attorney for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, a Chicago business organization and a church society, have joined the fight to save Bernard Grant from hanging on Oct. 17.

Darrow, in response to a telegram from Grant's counsel, today telegraphed from Charlevoix, Mich., that he would return here next week and would be "glad to do what I can."

The South Central Association, an organization of South State street business men, sent a resolution to Governor Small requesting commutation of Grant's sentence to life imprisonment which stated "that it may not be said that there is an inequality in the law between the rich and poor in Illinois." The resolution referred to the sentence of Loeb and Leopold for the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks and to the fact that they are millionaires' sons.

Thomas E. Swanson, attorney for Grant, also has received from the men's Bible class of the Methodist Church at Greenwood, Ind., a copy of a letter the class had sent to Governor Small asking clemency for Grant.

Grant was implicated in the murder of Ralph Souders, a policeman, in a holdup in 1922.

Why keep a coal hod on the kitchen floor?

It just means more dirt and dust in the kitchen. See how the Fortress Crawford does away with this.

It has two compartments in the base, one for the coal hod and the other for the ash hod. To put coal on the fire, just swing open the hinged door and there's the hod. When you are through with it put it back, shut the door and it's out of sight and out from under foot.

And that's only one of the good points of the Fortress. It has Crawford Single Damper Control which gives perfect regulation of oven-heat at all times, an extra-roomy oven with heat indicator, and a glossy black finish that's a joy to keep clean.

North Shore Folk Giving Dance at the Essex County Club

By BETTY ALDEN

A BAND of North Shore folk are playing host at a small dance taking place at the Essex County Club at Manchester on Saturday, October 4.

The affair is quite informal, being gotten up to pass the time of evening away and to entertain the friends of the enterprising group responsible for it.

Among the names appearing on the invitations are Mr. and Mrs. George L. Batchelder, Jr. (Katherine Abbott), whose marriage last February brought out in full force Boston's "first-family" contingent for the Trinity Church ceremonial; young Mr. and Mrs. George R. Fearing, 3d (Vera Howell), also of the Manchester colony, whose domicile was blessed not long ago by the arrival of a tiny newcomer; Miss Katherine Lane, whose skill with the chisel and mallet is fast winning considerable renown for the talented daughter of Mrs. Gardiner M. Lane; Miss Ella Snelling, the Robert B. Choates, Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Lothrop (Katherine Abbott), the latter the sister of Mrs. Batchelder; Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell (Elizabeth Caswell), their wedding of a year ago this month a long-to-be-remembered nuptial event of the North Shore; Mr. and Mrs. William Dexter, the Henry P. Kings, Jr., with dainty Miss Frances Weld of the red-gold locks and her brother, George Weld, completing the jolly band.

It isn't so very often that a terpsichorean affair takes place unless it be a large function staged for some charity or other. So that the smaller events are all the more welcome when they do take place. Those fortunate enough to be bidden have far more room in which to attempt the latest intricacies of terpsichore—an opportunity of which they are frequently deprived at the larger dances.

APROPOS of Manchester-by-the-Sea, members of that notable colony were delighted to hear that Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2d, and Miss Nancy Carnegie have returned from abroad and are to spend the Fall months there.

"Seawold," the Carnegie place, has been occupied this Summer by the Andrew Andersons of St. Augustine, Fla., who plan to remain there into October, so that the Carnegies may take another house for their Fall sojourn on the Shore.

Sometime in December the Carnegies will doubtless go South to their Winter home on Cumberland Island, Georgia.

It was on this lovely island, which is owned by the Carnegies—their's is the only house on it—that the ceremonial took place last March which transferred Miss Lucy Carnegie, the younger daughter of the house, into the bride of young Phineas Shaw Sprague, son of the Phineas W. Spragues of Commonwealth avenue.

Quite a good contingent went South for the ceremony, which was solemnized in the unusually lovely gardens of the Carnegie estate. The young people, following their long wedding journey abroad, are now in Maine. They are to make their home in Boston.

Society Notes

MR. AND MRS. OLIVER AMES will remain at their Pride's Crossing estate for another month before coming to their intermediate home at North Easton.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel K. Lothrop (Rachel Warren) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, born to them at the Mt. Vernon home of her mother, Mrs. Fiske Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopkinson of Cambridge are expected to return the latter part of this month from their Summer sojourn abroad.

Newell Bent, with Miss Margaret Bent and Newell Bent, Jr., recently arrived from Boston at the Mt. Pleasant House in the White Mountains.

William Astor Drayton has taken for the season the Ingalls cottage at Tuxedo. Mr. Drayton's daughter is Mrs. William Phillips, wife of the recently appointed ambassador to Belgium.

Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Jr., is returning to Beverly Farms following her ten-day visit at Buzzards Bay.

Colonel and Mrs. Robert Eliot Goodwin, who sailed for Europe early in August, are planning to return to their Hamilton home after October.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Boardman of Marlboro street will return very shortly from their Summer spent on foreign shores. They will probably spend some time at their Manchester place before opening the town house.

Mrs. Herbert F. Otis and her daughter, Miss Mary Otis, recently arrived for a stay at the Edgehill in Nahant.

WOMEN DEMAND DOLLS WITH AMERICAN FACES

"We want New England dolls with American faces, not foreign faces, sold here."

This was the sentiment at the meeting of the Woman's Board of Trade in the Colonial building when a number of women called for a halt of selling foreign dolls with foreign faces in New England.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 17.—A special investigating board appointed by the Canadian minister of immigration will meet here September 27 to decide whether Ben Legere of Lawrence, Mass., One Big Union organizer, is to be deported to the United States.

A preliminary board declared Legere to be technically liable to deportation and appeal was taken to the minister at Ottawa.

WEALTHY WOMAN DIES A SUICIDE IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 17 (Universal).—Hanging from a tree in the dense shrubbery skirting the public golf course at Jackson Park, the body of Mrs. Esther Lavine, 55 years old, wife of a retired wealthy wholesale merchant of Patterson, N. J., was found. It is believed that Mrs. Lavine took her life, when she learned her husband had instituted divorce proceedings.

CLEVER COMEDY AT PLYMOUTH FINELY ACTED

"Spring Cleaning" Offers Frank Discussion of Intimate Home Problems

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

AN evening spent with "Spring Cleaning" brought its own reward in the shape of new convictions that there is still a measure of good comedy in evening clothes and smart frocks—that is, if you have Frederick Lonsdale to write it and an ingenuous cast to interpret it.

Which means, in particular, that a quartet of the Selwyns' best player folk led you upon a merry, audacious journey at the Plymouth last evening, achieving results that not only cheered but which stirred renewed hopes for a brighter theatre.

FINELY ACTED.

It is just as well to concede that few, if any, plays offered for recent inspection have been fortified with a finer variety of acting strength. In the face of so much artistic display it was difficult to arrive at a fair starting point, except that Mr. Lonsdale's comedy doubtless would stand on its own two feet even with less vigorous support.

However, that may be, Arthur Byron, Estelle Winwood, Violet Heming and A. E. Matthews made things so deadly certain by the quality of their talents that "Spring Cleaning" will be held in happy memory for months to come. "Spring Cleaning" may be life as you find it in select English circles or it may be just smart dramatic dialogue and daring situations adroitly woven together into sound theatrical fabric—it matters little. But there was no safe or guarded escape from the enjoyment Mr. Lonsdale packed away in his three acts of domestic contest for the preservation of a home.

ETERNAL TRIANGLE.

Again it was the old and eternal triangle, this time with the solution in the hands of a girl of the streets, admirably played by Miss Winwood. But no less certain was Mr. Byron's fulsome evening as the husband who emphasized his wife's folly in playing with fire by introducing a street walker into his own home at the height of a gay but questionable dinner party.

It was no celebration for those who wished to escape scandal and disgrace—but the lady of the street did bring things to a point for open debate.

In the ensuing battle of wits Mr. Byron and Miss Winwood had much the best of the argument, though Miss Heming and Mr. Matthews held their own convincingly with the moral tide turned against them.

"Spring Cleaning" fairly sizzles with biting sarcasm and with its more than frank discussion of intimate home problems. And it seethes with penetrating comedy—not the rollicking, uproarious fun of farce, but the stimulating good humor that is discovered only in well written and intelligently acted plays of easy understanding. It tosses a kick you are bound to feel.

CHILD AIDS JUDGE TO DECIDE HER CUSTODY

Worcester, Sept. 17.—Teresa Pescarini, a pretty eight-year-old girl, aided Judge William T. Forbes in Probate Court, to decide between her aunt, who has reared her since she was two months old and her father John Pescarini of Lancaster, as to whom was to have her custody.

Judge Forbes made his decision in favor of the father after the child said she preferred to live with him. He has paid the aunt to bring up the little girl since the death of his first wife. The girl promised that she would always be kind to the aunt and would visit her regularly.

Death May Rob Hub of Dr. Duff and His Famed Felt Hat

Right in the midst of New England Week comes the news of the threatened loss of a famous New England institution—Dr. John Duff and his white felt hat.

For thirty years Dr. Duff's white hat has ranked with Faneuil Hall Market and the pigeons on Boston Common as something more Boston than Boston itself.

His tall, dignified personality with its snowy sartorial peak is known to every Bostonian, but especially the thousands of poor to whom he generously gave of his professional service.

Now he is at the Carney Hospital fighting a losing battle with sickness. He has rallied several times from an operation but physicians report his condition low.

Friends are recalling the famous reply he made when someone asked him how he kept his white hat so clean.

"I don't," he said. "This is a new one."

Dr. Duff lives at No. 5 Dexter row, Charlestown.

Competitors in New England Contest Have Until Midnight Saturday

Participants in the Boston American's $1,700 "Keep Your Eyes Open" competition, one of the features of a first wonderful and memorable New England Week, must be sure to have in mind a few important points.

First of all, your list of Made-in-New England articles, seen on exhibition during New England Week, must be in the mail not later than midnight on Saturday of this week.

Lists are NOT to be delivered at this office by hand. Each MUST be mailed.

Envelopes should be addressed to "New England Editor, P. O. Box 221, Boston, Mass."

Please make sure of the above points. The list must be MAILED. It must be mailed not later than midnight on the coming Saturday. The envelope should be addressed as above, to P. O. Box 221, Boston, Mass.

FURNISH INFORMATION.

In compiling your list, for the purposes of this competition, remember to furnish the information asked for.

First, the name of the New England-made article. If it has a trade-mark name, give that.

Second, the name of the manufacturer or producer.

Third, the name of the New England city or town in which the article was made or grown.

Fourth, the name of the merchant in whose establishment it was seen.

Fifth, the location of that establishment, as "Main Street, Worcester, Mass."

NUMBER YOUR ARTICLES.

Competitors will greatly accelerate the official count and the announcement of the awards if they will number the articles. If, for example, you report 377 different New England-made articles, it will help a lot if you will number them, from No. 1 to No. 377, inclusive.

It may be a trifle late to say more about the $1,700 in awards, but all of us like to talk about the money we are about to get.

For the largest list of New England products seen on exhibition this week by any one reader, and reported to the Boston American in accordance with the plan of this competition, the Boston American will pay $500 in cash.

For the next largest list, $200 in cash.

The thirty-five other awards are "district" awards, seven for each of five districts. Each district will have one award of $100, one of $50, one of $25, one of $10 and three of $5 each.

The districts are: One, Massachusetts; 2, Maine; 3, New Hampshire; 4, Vermont, and 5, Rhode Island and Connecticut, combined.

REVERE POST WINS THREE AWARDS

For the first time in the history of the Veterans of Foreign Wars a Massachusetts post has been awarded three first prizes at a national convention of the association.

At the convention just finished at Atlantic City, the Revere Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was awarded a first prize for having the best mounted drill team. The second first prize cup was given to the ladies' auxiliary of the post, for making the best appearance in the convention parade, and the third cup was taken by the same organization for having the largest delegation in the parade.

The Revere Post competed with more than 1,300 other posts throughout the country.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hanken, president of the ladies' auxiliary of the Revere Post, who designed the Paul Revere costumes for the drill team, was complimented by the newly-elected Commander-in-Chief General Dunn, for her work in making the convention a success, and he tendered a reception in her honor.

PEKIN FORCES GRAPPLE WITH MANCHUS

Shanghai, Sept. 17 (A.P.)—Renewed evidences of the spread of China's sectional civil war to the Manchurian-Chihlian front were contained in Pekin reports received here, telling of a battle at Chaoyang, where the forces of General Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian war lord, were said to have clashed with those of General Wu Pei-Fu, military head of the Pekin government.

For the past thirty-six hours the rival Kiangsu and Chekiang armies have been deadlocked in fierce battles waged along a front approximately 100 miles long west of Shanghai.

Tien Tsin reports from Urga, seat of the Mongolian government, said that a dozen foreign residents—American, British and Danish—were detained there as the result of a political disturbance. The report said that Premier Danzan of Mongolia had been shot by order of the Mongol Soviet, which is said to be plotting for the return of Mongolia to China.

Mukden-Pekin R. R. Believed Guarded

Pekin, Sept. 17 (A.P.)—Any attempt to employ the Pekin-Mukden railway for an invasion similar to that of 1922 is believed to be precluded by the preparations of the Chihli forces which are considered adequate to halt Chang Manchu, war lord, at Shanhaikwan.

Tracks of Ancient Elephant Found in Prison Floor

Reno, Nev., Sept. 17.—Tracks of an ancient elephant (mylodon harlani) "shambling off to his grave, where he sank to rise no more," embedded in the natural floor of the Nevada State Penitentiary at Carson City, were today described as "one of the wonders of the world" by Dr. John C. Merriam, paleontologist and president of the Carnegie Institute at Washington, D. C.

Dr. Merriam, attracted to Nevada by discoveries of relics of prehistoric man, was the guest of Governor Scrugham and Dr. J. Claude Jones of the University of Nevada.

After inspecting the prints at the prison, Dr. Merriam urged that precautions be taken to preserve them and that further excavating be done.

PARK BOARD IS DEFENDED BY CURLEY

Filling in Contract Awarded to Coleman Firm Has Mayor's Approval

Backing up the members of the Park Commission to the limit, Mayor Curley today will place before the commissioners the report of the Finance Commission which sets forth the city was overcharged $294,000 by the contracting firm improving the Strandway.

The Mayor lost no time in replying to the report of the finance commission declaring that he believed there would be "no difficulty in establishing beyond a reasonable doubt that your Commission in this case, as in substantially all previous cases, is in error."

The Fin. Com.'s report boldly charges that the contracting firm of J. C. Coleman & Sons' Company received $294,000 for "filling in" at Columbus Park, in South Boston, but that engineers employed by the finance commission can find no traces of this work.

BLAMED INDIRECTLY.

The report also charges that the contract which the city entered into with the contracting firm has been broken and that the contractors did not live up to the agreement, using rubbish in making the fill, instead of dirt, sand and loam as provided in the contract.

While the report of the Fin. Com. does not attack directly the members of the Park Commission, yet it is worded in such a manner that the Mayor and members of the Park Commission are tacitly blamed for permitting the contractors to secure more than a quarter of a million dollars for work never performed, or the traces of which have disappeared.

The Finance Commission in its report declares that the extravagance of the Park Commission is so flagrant that "action should be taken by a tax-payers' committee in the courts to prevent further waste of the city's money and to have the amendment to this contract, made on August 7, declared void."

NOT PASSED ON.

The commission asserts also that the contract was twice amended by the Park Commissioners, with the approval of Mayor Curley, "in an attempt to legalize the over-payments already made to the contractor."

One of the amendments, according to the report, was made after a conference of the park commissioners with John A. Sullivan, close friend of Mayor Curley, who acted as counsel for the contractor.

"The city was not represented by counsel," says the Fin. Com., "nor did the law department pass upon the amendment. The amended contract was approved by his Honor the Mayor."

SAVES LIFE BY OBEYING ORDER OF CROOK

Roxbury Man Puts Out Match When Intruder Issues Command

It wasn't crowing roosters or barking dogs or any similar annoyance that broke up the gentle slumbers of the Burkes at No. 144 Ruggles street. It was a man under Mrs. Catherine Burke's bed.

Mrs. Burke screamed somewhat when she heard a strange noise in her bedroom and Mr. Burke who was deep in the arms of Morpheus snapped out of it and came in with a lighted match.

The light disconcerted the informal visitor so much that he came out from under. But he held in his hand something that looked like a gun.

"Put out that match or I'll blow your head off," the intruder ordered.

Burke sacrificed the flicker in favor of his head and the caller stormed out through the rear door of the house.

The police are on the trail.

Auto Theft Cleared Up Before Owner Knows Car Is Stolen

Morris F. Cargir of Roxbury got record service when he reported to the police that his auto had been stolen.

"Sure," said the sergeant. "We know all about it. It was taken from Brighton, where you left it. It was wrecked in Quincy. The wreck burned up, the thieves ran away, the Quincy police arrested them, and we have them here if you'd like to look them over."

"Gosh," said Mr. Cargir (or words to that effect), "I just found out it was gone."

RADIO AMAZED NATIVES IN FAR NORTH

MacMillan Says Arctic Folk Believed the White Men Wound Up New Machine

Wiscasset, Me., Sept. 17.—Motion picture competition found its way even into the Arctic waste last Winter, according to Captain Donald B. MacMillan, whose expedition returning after fifteen months in the North, left Sydney, N. S. for this, its home port.

When the Schooner Bowdon carrying the MacMillan party left last year part of her equipment was a motion picture outfit. The explorers believed that they would be the sole proprietors of a picture show in the Arctic regions, but when they reached Greenland they found a rival. They were invited to attend a motion picture entertainment on board the Canadian Government Steamer Arctic.

"We took the two ultra modern developments—Motion pictures and radio—direct to a people who live and think exactly as their ancestors did 2,000 years ago," Dr. MacMillan said.

"What did they think of them? I don't know. The interpreters said they expressed wonder and the belief that the white man can do anything.

"For my part I think some of them believed the radio was merely a machine like the phonograph that we wound up below decks. We told them the people they heard were speaking thousands of miles away, but I doubt if many of them were capable of understanding. It must have been a severe tax upon their primitive imagination."

POLICE FUNERAL FOR PATROLMAN P. W. TOLAND

A police funeral was today accorded Patrolman Patrick W. Toland of the Charlestown station, for more than twenty-nine years a member of the Boston Police Department, who died Sunday at his home, No. 312 Bunker Hill street, following a year's illness. Several years ago, while making an arrest, he was stabbed in the back, and while he recovered temporarily he had never been well since. At St. Francis de Sales Church a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Thomas J. MacCormack, with Rev. George J. Quigley as deacon and the Rev. Francis X. Quinn as sub-deacon. A detail of sixteen patrolmen in charge of Sergeant Patrick J. Magner acted as escort.

BOSTONIANS HIT ADVOCATE OF POLYGAMY

Mayor, Lawyers, Preacher, Doctor, Scrubwoman, Reply to Kummer's Challenge

Why not polygamy?

"Marriage, as an institution, is falling into disrepute."

Frederick Arnold Kummer, the novelist, writing in the current Smart Set, says so.

Setting the marital relationship frankly up for a target the writer riddles it with its own weapons. The testimony of men and women who have run the gamut of its glamour and its cramped, drab monotony, is written into the records of civil courts the world over, he declared. Society needs polygamy, says Kummer.

New York answered Kummer pro and con. Boston has pricked up its ears.

WHAT BOSTON THINKS.

Would polygamy empty the divorce session in Suffolk Superior Court and give Judge Dolan's ears a rest?

Would it substitute interest for ennui?

Would it be "happiness ever after" when the marriage contract had blanks for additional entries?

Everyday folks—a mayor, a preacher, a doctor, a writer, the woman attornye who drew up the uniform divorce laws, a woman who scrubs railway cars—have thought a moment and answered.

Here are their answers:

Attorney Jennie Loitman Barron, Barristers Hall, who drafted the uniform divorce laws for the National League of Women Voters:

"First of all, I'm opposed to the abolition of marriage.

"Economically and socially, in our present stage of civilization, polygamy is impossible. The average man would find it impossible to support several wives and their children. On the other hand, if they must contribute to their own support, why any ceremony at all?

"Marriage has not fallen into disrepute. There are more divorces today, not because marriage was formerly more successful, but because women have grown out of their four walls. They are less willing to accept the handicaps of a one-sided domesticity, but they are still home-makers if they are not merely housekeepers.

"I have two children, a home, a husband and a profession. I am sure my home is successful and that my husband and I are not troubled by ennui."

BACH GIVES IT UP.

Gilbert Howard, Temple street, writer and statistician:

"I'm not married, myself, so I'm not an authority, but you're welcome to my views. If a fellow flivvers a marriage with one woman, I can't see how it would help him to sign up with half a dozen. I should think that that would multiply his troubles by exactly six.

"Of course, Australian bushmen and the forest tribes of Brazil make a great go of polygamy, but the good Lord takes a hand in feeding them and keeping them warm. And then, of course, there's no law there against swinging a club on your wife if she minds the outside competition.

"But how it would work out here—I give it up!"

Mayor Curley:

"The standards of any nation are dependent in a larger measure upon the moral law than upon the statute law.

"Monogamy may, in many cases, represent self-restraint, but this becomes a vital virtue when as a consequence the sanctity of the home is the result.

THE MAYOR'S VIEW

"Polygamy represents a disregard for the rights, present and future, of the offspring, an abandonment of all moral standards of decency and the lowering of the human family to the level of the animal kingdom.

"There is one right to which children are entitled, namely, to know their parents; with polygamy this is impossible."

Dr. Harold Ludgate, of No. 10A Parker Hill avenue:

"It sounds interesting, but it's an earmark of a primitive or decadent civilization. Nearly all the civilized races, including the Aryan culture, are believed to have passed through a period of promiscuity when they traced their lineage through their maternal parents, only.

Introduce New Plan

Charles A. Bond, organizer of the Bond stores, and Thomas Whalen (in circle) his Boston manager.

Big Gain at "Y" College

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 17.—The International Y. M. C. A. College opened today with the largest enrolment in its history, the freshman class numbering 180. The group in the graduate classes also establishes a record. The increase over last year in total enrolment is expected to reach 50 per cent.

BOND'S STORE IS NEW IDEA IN CLOTHING

Most of Selling Space Is on the Second Floor at Low Rent, Making Low Prices

Boston has something new in clothing stores in Bond's store which opened near the corner of Washington and Essex streets.

The store has arcade entrances on both streets, arranged so that pedestrians may enter at one street, pass through the "style arcade" and out at the other street just as if they were still on the sidewalk.

In the arcade is a display of clothing carefully lighted behind show windows.

On the second floor are 12,000 square feet of daylight selling space, which was available at low rental, thus making for low prices.

The novel scheme is part of the plan of Charles A. Bond, organizer of the Bond stores which cover eighteen cities. This plan features a chain of economically operated distributing stores selling directly to the wearers.

The arcade scheme provides a maximum of window display with a minimum of expenditure for ground floor rental. By confining the actual selling to the second floor, the cost for rental is still further decreased.

Mr. Bond said today he expected business in Boston to rival that done by the Bond store in Chicago, as "Bostonians are strongly receptive to values."

The new store's manager is Thomas Whalen.

New England and Wool Textiles

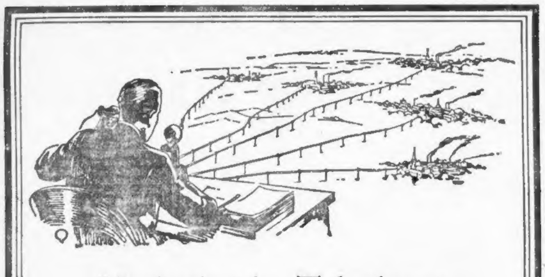
Wool has been used to clothe man for unknown centuries. Throughout the pastoral and agricultural stages of development, sheep raising has been an important factor. Sheep were excellent scavengers, helped to clear and to fertilize the ground; at the same time they supplied wool for the household needs. Because of these, Columbus carried sheep on his second voyage to America. Not until 1633 were sheep introduced into Massachusetts.

Merino sheep of Spain were first imported in 1793, with great risk by William Foster, of Boston. They were sent to a friend of his who lived in Cambridge. Unaware of their great value, this friend killed them for mutton. Later, in 1801 and 1802, Seth Adams of Dorchester and General Humphreys of Conn., imported Merino sheep and made serious efforts to produce better sheep.

The introduction of these Merino sheep was a strong incentive to establish the wool business on a manufacturing basis. A model village and woolen mill were erected at Seymour, Conn., in 1808, by General David Humphreys. This mill is still in operation.

Today, New England is a very large factor in the American supremacy of woolens. Each year over 50,000 looms, in New England, turn out a product valued at approximately $712,000,000. The number of manufacturing employees is estimated at 115,000. New England wool cloth and high grade worsteds are world famous for quality of fabric, distinctive design and skilful workmanship.

We buy several hundred thousand yards of fine cloth from the best woolen mills in New England not only for our yard goods sections but also for manufacturing of Men's Clothing. A large proportion of The Men's Suits and Topcoats we sell in the Store For Men are made in our own shops from worsteds and woolens woven in New England.



Marketing by Telephone

THE telephone is the courier of modern business. Today there are 23,000,000 telephones in the world. In the United States and Canada 15,000,000 of them are at your service through connections with the Bell System, of which our company is part.

The Bell System may be likened, in a general way, to our union of states. In it the American Telephone & Telegraph Company plays a part akin to that of our Federal government. It is the connecting link between the associated companies. It is their adviser, co-ordinator and research specialist. The place of the associated companies in the Bell System is like that of the several states. Each is autonomous; but each tries to work in harmony with the others.

Our company gives service in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island—Connecticut being served by another company. In the five states we operate more than 1,050,000 telephones. Besides, we have arrangements with some 150 smaller independent companies, mostly in Northern and Eastern New England, for interchange of calls.

We can help find markets for New England goods, therefore, not only in all parts of New England, but in the rest of the United States and in Canada as well. There is hardly a crossroads beyond reach of the telephone.

We can help solve your distribution problems. Ask any telephone manager.

'INVISIBLE' RUM TUG CAUGHT AT LAST

Princess Yearns to Bump Life's High Spots

SEA GREEN BOAT LONG SOUGHT

Trailed by Customs Men to Rum Row and Then Back to the Waterfront

Painted a deep green, which rendered her almost invisible, the sea-going tug S. C. Hart ran in and out of Boston Harbor to the forbidden fleet that waits beyond the twelve-mile limit; but today she was caught.

It was the most important capture of the year, in the opinion of the prohibition agents.

Five thousand gallons of alcohol were seized, as well as a lot of other stuff, not supposed by Mr. Volstead to be in this land of the free and home of the sober.

The capture of the phantom rum runner was spectacular as well as significant. As the customs patrol boat Dreamer crowded the rum runner to T Wharf, after an exciting chase, the captain and the alleged bankroll man jumped to the landing and escaped.

Frank Sanchez, the chief engineer, had similar ambitions, but he got only as far as the Eastern Packet Pier, where the prohibs found him hiding among the fish boxes.

HELD AS SMUGGLERS.

He and the other two men of the gang were arrested charged with smuggling. At customs headquarters the other two said they were Manuel Pico, the fireman, and George King, the cook.

They were arraigned before United States Commissioner Perry later in the day, on the smuggling charge.

The capture was one of the most spectacular ever made by the authorities in New England. The tug owned by the Trident Towing Company had for some time been suspected by customs authorities as a rum runner.

When the tug put out shortly after dark, the customs patrol boat Dreamer trailed along until the larger craft passed out of the harbor and put out to sea in the direction of rum row.

LAID IN WAIT.

The Dreamer did not follow, but with lights extinguished, lay in wait. Shortly after midnight the tug, all lights burning, steamed back into the harbor. She passed within a short distance of the customs boat without suspecting anything was wrong.

When the tug was once inside the harbor, the Dreamer threw off all attempt at stealth and started in pursuit. Half way up the harbor the crew of the tug discovered they were being pursued.

Both vessels were traveling under full steam and the mad race for the wharf followed.

JUMPED TO WHARF.

The government boat was rapidly closing in on the rum runner as the latter approached T Wharf. The captain of the tug signalled for his engines to stop, but before the boat nosed against the wharf, the captain and the other man leaped across the intervening space, landing on the wharf. They ran to Atlantic avenue and escaped.

The tug, without a guiding hand at the wheel, wallowed about until the customs vessel crew boarded her and took charge.

The engineer and engineroom crew, trapped below deck, did not have a chance to follow the captain.

FIREWORKS EXPLOSION LEAVES SCORE HOMELESS

Beacon, N. Y., Sept. 17 (I.N.S.).—Two explosions today wrecked the fireworks factory of Joseph Chiarella and a number of homes, killed Louis Fabiano, an employe, and made scores homeless in Beacon and vicinity. Fire, which followed, destroyed five buildings.

The explosion is thought to have resulted from a spark from a metal spoon used by Frank Fabiano, brother of Louis, in shifting powder from one recepticle to another.

SLIGHT EARTHQUAKE SCHOCKS RECORDED

Washington, Sept. 17.—A "rather slight" earthquake was recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown University here. The tremors began at 2:09 a. m., lasting until 2:30 a. m. Father Tondorf, director of the seismological observatory, estimated the distance as 1,400 miles south of Washington.

NOLAN HEAD OF PROTECTIVE SHOE UNION

Haverhill, Sept. 17.—Although he had been leading all the way in the contest, Austin E. Gill of Haverhill was defeated for president of the new Shoe Workers' Protective Union today, when returns from Philadelphia and St. Louis, the two remaining cities to be heard from, were received.

The St. Louis vote wiped out Gill's 400 plurality and his support in Philadelphia was not sufficient to retrieve it.

John D. Nolan of Rochester, N. Y., was elected president.

Another Haverhill man, however, William J. Ryan, was elected general secretary and treasurer.

St. Louis and Philadelphia gave Nolan a plurality of 623 over Gill. Rochester, Nolan's stronghold, gave Nolan a vote of only 81. Gill got three votes there.

The New York city union has a membership of nearly 4,000 and the exceedingly small vote is explained by officials here by the fact that a strike has been in progress there.

64-Year-Old Woman Swims 16 Miles on Birthday

Santa Monica, Cal., Sept. 17.—Mrs. Anna Van Skike announced today that year by year she was getting better and better, as she emerged from a sixteen-mile swim in the ocean in observance of the beginning of her sixty-fourth year.

She was in the water nine hours.

Last year she swam twelve miles to celebrate her birthday anniversary.

TWO QUIT BANKS TO SERVE AS ELECTORS

Hartford, Sept. 17.—Two prominent bankers and manufacturers of Connecticut, nominated for presidential electors on the Republican ticket, will sever their connections with national banks rather than jeopardize the legality of their votes in the electoral college. The rule provides that no persons "holding an office of trust or profit under the United States" may serve as a presidential elector. Charles F. Brooker of Ansonia has decided to resign as president and director of the Ansonia National Bank, and Colonel Francis T. Maxwell as president and director of the Rockville National Bank, director of the First National Bank of Hartford and director of the Hanover National Bank of New York.

WHAT IS SANITY? A SERIOUS QUESTION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHAT is sanity?

The question is not one of merely an amusing nature, but often is serious enough to turn a convict from execution to life imprisonment.

Bernard Shaw says:

"Am I mad? I really do not know. Doubtless I am clever in certain directions: my talent has enabled me to cut a figure in my profession in London.

"But a man may, like Don Quixote, be clever enough to cut a figure and yet be stark mad. A critic has described me, with deadly acuteness, as having 'a kindly dislike for my fellow creatures.' Perhaps dread would have been nearer the mark than dislike; for man is the only animal of which I am thoroughly and cravenly afraid. I have never thought much of the courage of a lion tamer.

"Inside the cage he is at least safe from other men. There is not much harm in a lion. He has no ideals, no religion, no politics, no chivalry, no gentility, in short no reason for destroying anything that he does not want to eat.

"At least, if I am sane, the rest of the world ought not to be at large. We cannot both see things as they really are."

The question must have occurred to every man whether he is wholly sane or not. Doubtless if the acts and opinions of any one of us were set down accurately he would have hard work to explain his sanity.

This is because no man is ever wholly consistent. In the first place, growth and advancement are fatal to consistency. Just where the line is to be drawn renders every man antisocial in his tendency, if so dangerous that he should be locked up it is hard to say.

It will be a question that it will be impossible for statutes to define, but must always remain for the jury to determine.

Perhaps in the formation of its opinion the jury should not be allowed to receive the testimony of a man's intimates, particularly his wife. No man is sane to his valet; at least he is always peculiar.

SUICIDE PACT SUSPECTED IN GIRL'S DEATH

New Brunswick, N. J., Sept. 17 (I.N.S.).—"If we cannot live together in life let us part together in death. It is the only way I can see, my beautiful one."

With the finding today of a letter containing those words the mystery of the death of Elizabeth Johnson, pretty fifteen-year-old schoolgirl of Kingston, whose mutilated body was found near her farmhouse home, became even more complicated.

The letter was written to the dead girl by Harvey Selhaven, the farmhand employed by the girl's father, Joseph Johnson, and implies a death pact between the two. Authorities, however, hold two different theories of the girl's death.

Fred W. David of Middlesex County says the position of the wound and the course the bullet took through the girl's skull, makes it clearly evident that she was murdered. He believes the girl had a rendezvous with a lover and that when she refused to run away with him he killed her.

AFRAID OF FIREARMS.

"Furthermore," David said, "the girl is known to have been afraid of firearms. And where is the gun if she committed suicide?"

In the face of Detective David's arguments, however, is the letter which was found in the cave-like nook.

It read:

"My dear, precious darling:—

"I am very sad tonight and my heart is broken for the one I love most dearly. Just to think, only two days more and I will x x x x To put you from my love. I cannot do it. It seems the only way out is the way you said on the porch tonight. Give me what I want my fair and only lover, and I will do anything under the —— you ask me to do.

"Without you life would be nothing worth while for me and if I do what you asked our sorrows would be over forever. I know my precious one that I could not live without you and I think you could not go on without me. If we cannot live together in life let us part together in death. It is the only way I can see my beautiful one.

"With a million kisses

"Your broken-hearted lover

H. S."

YOUTHS QUESTIONED.

The authorities today began a nation-wide hunt for Selhaver, whom they believe wrote the letter.

Three of several young men neighbors of the girl, who have been friendly with her were to be questioned today. None of the trio, it is said, is under suspicion, but police are seeking information about the girl and her affairs.

VIENNA DARK OWING TO STRIKE TROUBLES

Vienna, Sept. 17.—Vienna was cast into darkness last night as a result of the unfavorable turn which negotiations between the metal workers and the employers in the metal industry took. When the negotiations failed, the strike committee of the metal workers authorized the power house men to cut off light and power in the principal sections of the city.

DOUGLAS DIES IN HOSPITAL

Famous Shoe Manufacturer and Former Governor Ill for Long Time

Former Governor William L. Douglas of Brookline and founder and retired head of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company, died at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital at 1:55 a. m.

Mr. Douglas had been a patient in the hospital for the past six weeks and underwent two operations. He failed to rally from the second one. Members of his family were at his bedside when he expired.

While in the hospital, the former political leader attained his seventy-ninth birthday.

The former Governor was stricken while at his Summer home at Marion and was removed at once to the hospital. The nature of the illness of Mr. Douglas was never revealed. For a time it was believed he would recover, but his advanced years were responsible for his weakened vitality which finally resulted in death.

Governor Cox today ordered the flags on the State House and all other State buildings at half staff for the deceased executive. He sent the following message of sympathy to Mrs. Douglas:

"Please accept this expression of my deep sympathy in the death of your distinguished husband. The vision and courage of such strong men as Governor Douglas has helped give Massachusetts her present industrial leadership.

"His name will ever remain in the records of this Commonwealth as an able and high-minded executive whose first desire was to serve his fellowmen."

BORN IN PLYMOUTH.

Mr. Douglas, while for many years active in the affairs of the Democratic party in Massachusetts, filling a number of offices, was best known as a shoe manufacturer. His combined factories, at the time of his death, had a capacity of 20,000 pairs of shoes daily, while he maintained 117 retail stores throughout the United States, where his shoes were sold exclusively, while thousands of other dealers handled the shoes as a part of their merchandise.

William Lewis Douglas was born in Plymouth on August 22, 1843, a son of William and Mary C. (Vaughan) Douglas. He was educated at brief, irregular periods in the public schools in several Massachusetts towns, where, at various times, his parents made their home. He received an LL.D. from Tufts College in 1905.

At the age of six his father died.

WENT TO WORK AT 7.

When he was seven years old, he went to work for an uncle, who set him to pegging shoes, and it was this work, at that early age, which shaped his meteorical career, which was to place him years later as one of the nation's most prominent manufacturers of footwear.

Except for a brief return to his mother when 11 years old, he worked for his uncle in the shoe trade for eight years. When he was 15, he worked in a cotton mill at Plymouth, but this did not hold forth the glamour that the shoe-pegging game did for him. And soon afterward, he went to Hopkinton and later to South Braintree, at both of which places he worked as a bootmaker.

MADE FOREMAN.

His first visit to Brockton, the city he was later to make nationally famous by his shoes, occurred in 1876. In that year he took a position as foreman in a Brockton shoe factory. Ambition soon led him to start a small shop of his own.

Mr. Douglas was a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1884 and 1885. In 1887 he was elected to the State Senate.

Continuing his political career, he became Mayor of Brockton in 1890, and fifteen years later served one term as Governor of Massachusetts. He was delegate to the Democratic national conventions in 1884, 1892 and 1896, and delegate-at-large in 1904.

Mr. Douglas was married on Sept. 6, 1868, to N. Augusta Terry, at Chiltenville, a section of Plymouth.

DANCE WILL DO IT, SHE CONIFDES

Peabody Leather Ironer Says Russ Nobility Is Hers, but Lot Now Is Poor Worker

She wants to live. She wants to dance. She wants to be self respecting and self supporting.

Meet Sonya Tchechkhovna, all tired out after ironing leather all day in a Peabody leather factory.

Eighteen years old, and pretty enough to be in the chorus of the snappiest musical show ever seen in Boston, Miss Sonya says she is a member of the Russian nobility and a daughter of the famous family of Check.

It is her amitation to become a dancer of the Russian ballet type when she gets time.

WANTS TO WIN HER WAY.

She says she has danced in Cuba and the United States for the last five years, and that several families of means have offered her a chance to study classical dancing, but she prefers to win her way, like a Horatio Alger girl.

"Particularly in the United States," she explains, with a gesture that is too pretty to be Peabodyesque and too earnest and emphatic to be Gallic.

Born outside of Russia eighteen years ago, she lived in Player for thirteen years, but suddenly there was dissatisfaction in her family. She says she had everything she wanted, including a nursemaid to care for her, a horse to ride, in fact, everything that wealth and influence could afford, but it ended abruptly one day.

"As I recall the circumstances, the whole trouble was over me, and I finally began to realize this when my father sent me to Cuba to live," continued the little miss.

GAVE HER UP.

"When I left Russia my advanced sufficient money for my maintenance for a time, but when these people found out that there was no more money coming from Russia for the time being, they treated me horribly, until I was forced to leave when war broke out.

"With what little knowledge I had of dancing I applied for a position in Atlanta, Ga. There I danced for a year in cafes, in fact any place where I could get enough money to help me to my goal, New York, for I had heard that my father had left the country of my birth and was in your big metropolis.

"Arriving in New York I danced for about six months. Between times I endeavored to locate my father. But luck was not with me and I did not see him. I left New York disgusted and came to Boston early last year, where I danced for a while. Then I got out of work again.

PENNILESS IN PEABODY.

"One day, bright and early this Spring, I packed up what clothes I had and started out for I did not know where. Finally I landed in Peabody. I hired a room, but was penniless. The owner of the house, a kindly woman, took me in and gave me lodging while I hunted each day for a position.

"Although I wanted to do nothing but dance, yet I was "broke." Some one mentioned a job in a leather shop and so hurrying post-haste to the factory I secured the lofty position of ironing out light leather skins.

"I will work here until I have learned to master the art of Russian dancing and then try to get a stage engagement. As for my claim to nobility, I have papers in my possession which will substantiate this. Those people who know of the whereabouts of my father conceal him from knowing me, knowing that I have a claim to some possessions in Russia and when I see him in court proceedings will commence immediately."

SCHOOL OR KITCHEN FOR GIRL BRIDE

MRS. SUSAN M. COMEAU

Pretty Haverhill bride of fifteen who has been ordered back to school by the authorities in event she should seek employment. If she remains at home as a housewife, the authorities will probably waive the compulsory attendance clause of the State educational laws. If she goes back to school her friends are wondering what "Hubby" will say when the marks on her report are not up to snuff.

OMAHA MAY BE NEXT LEGION CONVENTION CITY

St. Paul, Sept. 17 (I.N.S.).—Omaha will get the next convention of the American Legion. Philadelphia will be the host in 1926, and the buddies will travel to Paris for their 1928 gathering if the recommendations of the commitee made today are adopted by the convention. The vote on the next convention was very close and the committee's recommendations may be overruled.

The committee vote was 15 for Omaha and 14 for Fort Worth, with two members not voting.

COX'S STENOGRAPHER SECRETLY MARRIED

That romance has blossomed in the office of Governor Cox was discovered today with the announcement of the secret marriage last June of Miss Lillian Tongberg, of No. 17 Hovey Terrace, Lynn, one of the stenographers in the Governor's office. She was married in Woodstock, Vt., to O. E. Hamilton, an Evarts, Vt., chemist.

Today, following the announcement to her friends, she received a box of silver from the Governor's Council and her fellow workers. Saturday Mrs. Hamilton will leave for Woodstock, where she and her husband will make their home.

BANCROFT SETS EXAMPLE FOR BRAVES BY PLUCKY PLAY

BOY PILOT INSPIRES BRAVES

By NICK FLATLEY

DAVID BANCROFT is a young man worthy of considerable praise at this particularly desolate period of the Boston baseball season. David, as you know, manages the tail end Braves. He should be glum and disconsolate. He should be taking a vacation for himself, as it wasn't so long ago that he had an appendix and several other internal things carved out. But he isn't sore on the world at all. And he's playing the greatest baseball a Boston athlete has displayed in years.

BANNY continues to give the impression that he's going to be quite a manager, once he gets something to work with. He has the spirit, the ability to take the knocks and come back for more. He has more than his share of courage, which combined with wonderful ability, makes him an inspiration for any ball club. The boy manager couldn't get back into the game in time to keep his team out of the cellar. But he's in there now, plugging away as if a pennant depended on it. He's worth anybody's trip to Braves Field one of these cool afternoons.

* * *

BASEBALL has lost one of its very finest citizens, Frank Chance. He was a super-player and a great manager. He was a famous scrapper on the diamond, enjoyed plenty of trouble, but was always a square shooter. He made a host of friends in Boston, while managing a hap hazard Sox team for a single year. He ended a great career here, for after he departed from the Fenway, he was unable to do anything but fight grimly against the inevitable. The Peerless Leader he was called, and he was all of that.

* * *

THE terrific socking the Brooklyn Dodgers accepted from the Cards wasn't as disastrous as it might have been. While it was all happening the Giants and Pirates were dividing double headers, so the Robins only fell back half a game. But their fight is terribly tough. With only ten games to go, they have to pick up two full pastimes on the champions. Which is not any cinch. And the Pirate threat is too close for any great comfort. Given time, the Robins might win out, but they don't seem to have enough of that valuable commodity left.

ZIVIC KAYOES WALKER, SENSATIONAL LIGHTWEIGHT

New York, Sept. 17 (Universal)—Archie Walker came to a speedy end at the hand of Jack Zivic. Five times Walker visited the rug. A left hook delivered in a neutral corner finished him. The fight went 2 minutes and 35 seconds. It was the first knockout ever scored against Walker, a young and muscular Brooklyn lightweight.

AMERICA WINS POLO SERIES AGAIN

By DAMON RUNYON

Meadow Brook, Long Island, Sept. 17.—Lickety-split, here he comes! lickety-split, there he goes!

That's Hitchcock—"Lickety-split" Hitchcock.

The drum of his pony's hoofs on the green turf of Meadowbrook field still beats through this writer's recollection of the second game of the international polo series between America and England—won by the Yankees, 14 to 5.

Lickety—split!

That's Hitchcock——

He's a mild-looking young chap on the ground, well-groomed, polite, and he comes of a nice family; but when you put him aboard the hurricane deck of a polo pony, he sort o' forgets himself.

He becomes a hell-bender on hoofs, a weaving, careening, devil take-the-hindmost fellow, as he goes lickety-splitting along. He suggests a cowpuncher shooting up a town.

Hitchcock, as you may infer, was the star of the game.

The English team, after a jolly little old row, which included the firing of Major F. B. Hurndall, captain of the team, from the lineup, and the installation of Major T. P. Melville and Major G. Phipps-Hornby, played better polo than it did Saturday, starting off with much flare.

Luis Lacey, the great back, was again the star of the day for the English, but Melville also figured. The new players undoubtedly helped. Even so, the visitors were far outclassed. It's a pretty tough assignment to beat both a Hitchcock and a Milburn.

This was the "rubber" series since the Americans and English began playing the international tournaments years ago. The Americans have now won five tournaments to four for the English. The result was a foregone conclusion even before the teams lined up the first day.

SOUZA AND PINCUS SIGN FOR SIX-ROUND BOUT

Brooklyn fight fans are in for a real pugilistic treat when Joe Souza, slam-bang Californian bantamweight, meets Nat Pincus in the main event of six rounds at the Ridgewood Grove S. C. Saturday night.

Sammy Aaronson, ex-A. A. U. lightweight champion, stamped by critics as a possible lightweight champion, meets Sammy Markowitz semi-final. In other bouts, Billy Vidabeck meets Joe Cavalier; Johnny Gleason meets Charley Feraci; Joe Malone tackles Nick Quagerrell; Joe Abbate meets Abe Greenfield, four rounds.

SENATORS PREPARE FOR WORLD'S SERIES CROWDS

Washington, Sept. 17. — Clark Griffith has so much confidence in his ball players that he has put a gang of workmen to tearing down the right field signboards and scoreboard in his ball park, to make room for another bleacher stand that will seat 8000 to accommodate World Series crowds. Griff says the work will not be stopped unless the Nationals drop out of first place. Thousands of applications for World Series seats are coming in.

RICKARD PLANS TO FEATURE HEAVIES

By SID MERCER

New York, Sept. 17. — Heavyweights will be featured frequently at Madison Square Garden this Winter if Tex Rickard can employ his persuasive eloquence to good effect on certain managers who are beginning to realize that the days of fabulous prices for ordinary fighters are passing.

Rickard will endeavor to talk Eddie Kane and Leo Flynn into matching Tom Gibbons and Jack Renault for a November scuffle. Other prospective affrays will be discussed.

Both Gibbons and Renault want Wills. Also Luis Firpo, who will linger until next Spring if he beats the deportation proceedings. He is under contract to Rickard for two more fights.

Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, and George Godfrey, Philadelphia heavyweight, can be backed into Rickard's stall.

These two with Firpo Wills, Renald and Gibbons are the six most prominent "logical contenders." Rickard should be able to arrange many interesting combinations from that field.

NEED $20,000 FOR GEERS MONUMENT

Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 17.—A special meeting of all horse owners and drivers here for the Grand Circuit Meet this week have been requested to gather at the Hotel Secor tomorrow night to take steps towards erecting a suitable monument to the late Edward F. Geers, dean of harness horse drivers, who was killed at Wheeling, West Va., on Sept. 3. It is hoped to raise a fund of $20,000 among harness horsemen of the country.

Grand circuit followers have taken no previous action and the meeting, it is hoped, will result in a substantial nest egg to start the memorial fund.

The third number on the bill will be a return match between Bobby Risden, the Harlem featherweight, and Izzy Cooper.

Martin will begin the scrimmaging the first of the week in preparation for the opening game with Union at Schenectady September 27.

Easton, Pa., Sept. 15.—Joe Heppt, twenty-eight years old, of Bethlehem, the automobile racing driver who suffered a fractured skull when his car ran through a fence at the Nazareth Fair Grounds during a race, is dead in the Easton Hospital. His mechanician, Edward Dagers, also of Bethlehem, was hurt.

STRIBLING BEATS ROBSON IN SPIRITED BOUT

By JACK CONWAY

Young Stribling, sensational nineteen-year-old light-heavyweight, of Macon, Ga., won his seventy-eighth straight bout when he outpointed Tommy Robson of Malden in a spirited ten-round bout at the Commercial A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building. More than 8,000 fans witnessed the contest, which was the largest crowd to attend a boxing match indoors in this city since the Wilson-McCarthy mill for the Boston American's Christmas basket fund last December.

It was a hard, gruelling contest all the way, with Stribling's youth and strength enabling him to make the little extra spurt in the closing rounds necessary to catch the eyes of the judges.

There were not any knockdowns scored by either boxer despite the fact each counted with some hefty blows.

Robson fought equally as well as he did against George Robinson. He was willing at all times to mix things with Stribling. When Malden Tommy counted with crashing left and right-hand socks to the head and body he shook up Stribling to the soles of his feet.

There was considerable holding during the bout with Stribling the chief offender. In close, the Macon youth's strength enabled him to outrough Robson and get into position to send over some hard smashes.

There was little difference in weight between the two men. Stribling scaled 169 pounds, Robson 169½ pounds. Both men appeared in perfect physical condition.

"Ma" Stribling was at the ringside. Her fighting son kissed her as he entered the ring and again as he left the arena in triumph.

JACK DELANEY SIGNS TO BATTLE ROBSON

Jack Delaney of Bridgeport has been signed to meet Robson under the direction of the Commercial A. C. on September 29.

Francis Russi of Brockton outpointed Tommy Gerard of Newark in eight rounds. Gerard substituted for Tommy (Kid) Murphy of New York, who was not allowed to box on account of the fact he had engaged in a ring contest on Monday night.

Pete Stamarti of Nashua, N. H., disposed of Happy Davis of Charlestown in three chapters. Davis suffered an injury to his eye in the third session and the referee halted festivities.

Tom Gardner of San Francisco kayoed Joe Burman of Atlanta in three chapters.

MEDFORD HIGH AGAIN LOOMS AS CHAMPION

Medford High will again be represented by a championship eleven, the way the team sizes up in practice.

After a two-hour scrimmage the Mansfield-coached aggregation appeared ready to roll up a tremendous score against Arlington in the opening game Saturday.

Team A scrimmaged Team B. Judging by the way the two squads performed, things look bad for Medford High's opponents.

Team A scored seven touchdowns—then called it an afternoon. Team B, about the calibre of an average high school eleven, tried hard to make gains but found it impossible.

The snappy Medford backfield ran rings around the seconds. Fred Ellis, the triple threat, punted, run the ends and carried the ball through the line in great fashion. Bud Edgerly's broken field running baffled the seconds, while Archie Surrett's work on defense was notable: Ed Herb, husky fullback, ripped through the line for good gains.

The Medford line, with Nuddie Mander, Okie O'Connor and Webber Knox, holding the spotlight, also featured. Captain Mander's work at right end was too much for the seconds, who decided to run most of the plays around the other side of the line.

THREE MEN ARRESTED FOR RESELLING FIGHT TICKETS

Three young men were arrested in front of Mechanics Building as the crowd was entering for the Stribling-Robson bout. They were charged with reselling tickets purchased for the contest. These were the first arrests under a new statute forbidding anybody to resell any ticket for an amusement proposition. Under this statute it is not necessary to show a person is what is commonly called a speculator.

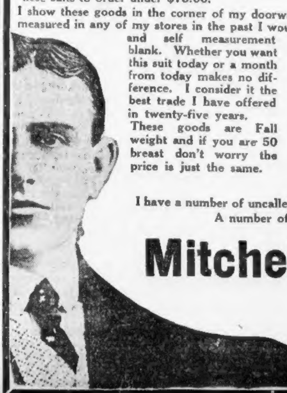
Genuine French Unfinished Worsteds 14-16 oz. in Weight. Suit to Your Order Irrespective of size $20.00

MADE IN FRANCE

One of those trades that come once in a lifetime dropped into my lap Friday of last week. I buy twenty pieces Blue and Black Unfinished Worsteds, made in Elbeuf, France, absolutely all wool and guaranteed in every way for color and finish, soft lustrous unfinished fabrics. I can safely say that I don't believe another tailor in the country would make these suits to order under $75.00.

I show these goods in the corner of my doorway, and to the old customer who has been measured in any of my stores in the past I would suggest sending 2c stamp for samples and self measurement blank. Whether you want this suit today or a month from today makes no difference. I consider it the best trade I have offered in twenty-five years. These goods are Fall weight and if you are 50 breast don't worry the price is just the same.



Suit to Order $20.00

I have a number of uncalled for Suits and Overcoats as low as $12.00

FISHER PUTS OVER FOUR SHIFTS IN HARVARD GRID MAKEUP

BACK MEN ARE MOVED INTO LINE

In order to make up for the lack of veteran line material at Harvard this year, Head Coach Bob Fisher of the Crimson football team has made four shifts in the positions of his players.

Outstanding among these is the moving of George Braden, substitute halfback on the varsity squad for the past two seasons, from halfback to end. There is a decided lack of end material at Cambridge this season and it is hoped that Braden may prove of value as a wing man.

Most followers of football think of Braden only as a halfback, but those who look back to prewar days will remember that one of the leading preparatory school football stars of the entire East back in 1917 was Captain George Braden of Andover Academy.

Braden starred at end for Andover that year so he will be [illegible] treading on familiar territory when he works out with the ends at Harvard this year.

CAPTAIN ALSO SHIFTED

Another shift now [illegible] Captain Malcolm Greenough, centre on last year's varsity eleven, from centre to [illegible] [illegible] Newton High School [illegible] [illegible] at Harvard [illegible] along with Leo Daley of last year's freshman team [illegible] fact that he is now recovering from a recent [illegible]

Thus the [illegible] situation is being remedied by the transfer of Coady from [illegible] and the moving of Captain [illegible] from centre [illegible] by the transfer of Braden.

BRITISH DEFEAT AT POLO IS BLAMED ON WEATHER

Syosset, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Lord Louis Mountbatten, a cousin of the Prince of Wales, explained to newspaper correspondents here that the British polo team's weakness was lack of experience in playing together.

"The team has practiced as a unit only twice," he said, "on account of the wet weather in England. It has rained almost constantly since April. As a matter of fact the present combination of British players had never played together when it met the Americans on Saturday. The Americans, of course, are a team of Laceys."

Children with Rickets Need Cod Liver Oil

Use McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets

For weak, puny, under-developed children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme; nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date chemists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained [illegible] pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at druggists all over North America—but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine.

SEQUEL OF CHICKIE

By Elenore Meherin

Boston Girl's Impassioned Love Story and Her Struggle to Live It Down and Come Back

SHE advanced swiftly as Chickie entered, both nervous and determined: "Is this Miss Bryce? I would like to speak with you. I am Mrs. Burdell. No doubt you have heard of me."

"I [illegible] Mrs. Burdell. I [illegible] ing it."

"No? I am Dr. Ramm's aunt—"

Chickie surveyed her with a pel[illegible] unease. She moved a chair for her visitor. Mrs. Burdell raised her hand, glancing to the group in the corner now crashing out chords of laughter.

Grave Matter

"Not here, Miss Bryce. I cannot speak here—the matter [illegible] very grave."

"Yes. I am [illegible] other place. My [illegible] ing."

"I have my [illegible]" Chickie [illegible]

"Will you give me [illegible] of your time, Miss Bryce? It's to our mutual [illegible]. I [illegible] should not care to speak [illegible]"

Then Chickie [illegible] at Mrs. Burdell and nodded. She had already a withering [illegible] of the woman's [illegible] luctant and with a [illegible] a giant anger [illegible] her room.

She put on [illegible] deciding against going [illegible] sun?" [illegible] two of [illegible] He had never [illegible] What grave [illegible] How did it concern Mrs. B[illegible]

A chauffeur [illegible] Burdell seemed relieved when they were started. She took out a cigarette and [illegible] offered the gold case to Chickie. [illegible] refused.

Mrs. Burdell took a long, swift puff. "So my [illegible] has not spoken of me, Miss Bryce? [illegible] seems strange. It was I who raised him after his mother's death."

Chickie said: "Did you?" She was surprised for he had often spoken of his mother, yet never as of one long passed.

By Her Wish

"Yes—and it was at my wish that he went to [illegible] even then [illegible] before him. He [illegible] ready [illegible] the faith of his family. [illegible] making a [illegible]"

Mrs. [illegible] "And of [illegible] terfere with [illegible]"

Then I [illegible] the last six weeks [illegible] have re[illegible] erable [illegible] of your past [illegible] the [illegible] seem to [illegible] you [illegible] us. You can certainly [illegible] Miss Bryce that such [illegible] do an irreparable damage to his vital prestige. He is a [illegible] man. He has to safeguard [illegible] name—"

Chickie's pulses were [illegible] hotly; her throat and [illegible] seared. She sat forward [illegible] with a husky quiet: "If you have come to [illegible] my [illegible] Ramm, Mrs. Burdell, I [illegible] you that I [illegible] guarding his [illegible] the best judge of that."

Not a Judge

"The facts prove that he [illegible] judge of this. Men—especially young men—are never [illegible] such matters. But you know, of course, that his work [illegible] only loyalty. He will [illegible] that his association with you [illegible] pers [illegible] and it [illegible] terminated. I have come to ask you in fairness, to end this disastrous relation—"

Her breath rose in choking gusts. She had to clench her hands—hold herself silent.

The other's voice sharpened; her high shoulders became [illegible] narrow: "I have a right to ask this, Miss Bryce, and to inform you that if you have any thoughts of marriage [illegible] them from your mind. Even David would not be reckless enough for that!

"Why the idea! A girl of your character [illegible] to force [illegible] such men. I wonder what the world is coming to. You should realize at least some sense of responsibility. There's entirely too much of this looseness [illegible]. You do as you please and then come back and attempt [illegible] a man of prestige and family and brilliance! Every little flapper in the city will think she can do the same—"

Chickie felt the blood beat warmly in heavy waves about her head—

"Moreover you would never be accepted by his family or his friends."

She flung in then with a soft violence: "I shall not ask you, Mrs. Burdell nor any one else to accept me now or at any time. And if the thought of marriage becomes interesting to me, I assure you the man shall know what I am and he and not his relatives shall be the judge."

"[illegible] I understand, Miss Bryce, [illegible]"

The biggest job in America

THINK of it—thirty or forty youngsters in her care [illegible]—to train their minds—to guard their health—to mould them into useful men and women.

What a load she lifts from mother's shoulders! Health commissioners would be helpless without her. The moral, mental and physical well being of future generations is largely in her keeping.

Teachers, the country over, are great believers in Lifebuoy Health Soap—for use in homes and schools.

They know that its gentle, antiseptic lather is the best and surest everyday protection against the spread of sickness in school.

Regardless of [illegible] conditions, a general Lifebuoy wash-up makes the whole class equal so far as cleanness goes. Lifebuoy is so pure and its antiseptic action is so gentle that its constant use keeps skin in splendid condition. Frequent Lifebuoy shampooing of children's hair prevents [illegible] troubles which mothers dread [illegible] lustrous.

But Lifebuoy's greatest value is to remove from hands and face the [illegible] which children constantly pick up from others and from almost everything they touch. [illegible] result when these germs get into nose or mouth.

3-MINUTE JOURNEYS

By Temple Manning

NEPAL is a small town in India. The country, chiefly composed of dense forests, and half-hidden streams and lakes, is the home of the larger, and more ferocious variety, of wild animals. Tigers, lions and elephants are among the specimens that may be found in the depths of the forests that penetrate far into the interior of the land.

The Nepalese are interesting, but are a very superstitious people and, because of this, each village has its own wise men, or astrologers, as they are called, who profess to know anything and everything, and whose advice is constantly sought by the ignorant villagers.

Nothing of importance is done without first consulting the village astrologer. He straightens out all legal tangles and domestic quarrels.

If a Nepalese wishes to build a house, he must talk the matter over with the wise man, and get his approval before laying the foundation.

If a native contemplates starting out on an important journey, or if he desires to cultivate a patch of ground, the matter must be brought to the attention of the local astrologer, and no journeying is done and no work started until full permission and consent is granted.

As in Burma, the people of Nepal, are much given to keeping feasts and building temples, and any family that really amounts to anything in the social life of Nepal, has its priest or lama. The title is hereditary, and is handed down from generation to generation.

The people are of mixed Mongol origin, and are not of the savage type, as one would be led to believe, but are quite civilized.

In fact, the only place in India where virtual savage tribes may still be found, are in the depths of the endless forests in the extreme eastern parts of Nepal and Burma.

The Helping Hand

Appeals for Family

Helping Hand Editor:

There is a family of four children in want, ages 4, 7, 9, 11. The mother has just come out of the hospital and the father has been sick and has not worked for four months. They have no clothes or money. They have been living on bread and canned milk for six weeks. The father will accept any kind of a position. MRS. L. B.

Needs a Tent

Helping Hand Editor:

As it is necessary that I live in the open and go to a warm, dry climate, I am trying to get a bit together to go to Arizona. I shall have to drive my old flivver and camp out, as I have little money. I am in need of a tent, 7 x 9, and camping outfit. If any kind reader could help me out, I shall appreciate it greatly. L. E. H.

In Hard Luck

Helping Hand Editor:

I am writing you about a family which has had hard luck. There are seven children. The oldest boy works, but the father has a paralyzed arm. Their barn caved in last Fall and they started to build a new one, but are unable to complete it because of financial conditions. In a thunder storm three of their cows were killed by lightning. The mother is discouraged. She would like to preserve berries, but has no jars or money to buy sugar with. MRS. E. H.

Chance for Girl

Helping Hand Editor:

Will give a good home to a girl in return for help with children. No washing or cooking. Can go to school evenings. Will pay five dollars. MRS. M. K.

Family in Need

Helping Hand Editor:

There is a family greatly in need of food and clothing which I hope some of your generous readers will help. The husband is sickly and out of work. The children are 4 months, 3 years and 8 years. The girl, 8, needs clothing. The mother would be glad to have housedresses or bungalow aprons and takes size 4 shoes. The husband takes size 40 clothes. MRS. J. B.

Will Help Mother

Helping Hand Editor:

I have a suit for a woman, size 36, also a few things for a year-old child I would be glad to send to someone. MRS. J. T. H.

Thank you. Mrs. J. M., mother of seven children, can make good use of this clothing. We are forwarding you her address.

Clothes Needed

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a mother of four small children and expect another soon. My husband is not able to do all kinds of work. I am in need of clothes for the boys, 6 and 5 years, and the girls, 2 and 1, also for the expected one. If you have a few playthings for the children, it will make them happy. MRS. P. P.

Would Adopt Child

Helping Hand Editor:

Where could I get a nice baby boy or girl about six months for adoption? We have no children of our own. We could give it a good home and everything it wanted. We are going to California soon. MRS. W. C. S.

Wants Bicycle

Helping Hand Editor:

I wonder if any of your readers have a bicycle for a boy of eleven years? I would be willing to pay a small amount. My boy wants one badly, but I can't afford to buy a new one. MRS. O. F. S.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney

Boston Health Commissioner

LEAD poisoning occurs when one is exposed and working for a considerable time in the presence of lead or lead fumes.

The fumes are inhaled, and being heavier than the air, lodge on the lining membrane of the lungs, from which the particles are absorbed into the general system.

Dr. Mahoney.

Workers who do not protect their hands and arms while handling large quantities of lead in any form, may absorb considerable quantities of the metal directly through the skin and thus develop the distressing symptoms of lead poisoning.

The chief treatment is preventive. Happily under the development of industrial medicine no sane manufacturer of lead products will today subject his workmen to this risk. Lead dust and lead fumes are now for the most part controlled.

The curative treatment of the condition itself consists in getting away from the cause. Some persons show a remarkable susceptibility to lead poisoning and should never go near the metal. The cure may be rapidly advanced by appropriate treatment at the hands of any intelligent physician.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

My little boy has had infantile paralysis and is not quite all right yet. Please tell me the best place to take him for treatment? M. A. K.

I would recommend that you take your child to the Children's Hospital, No. 300 Longwood avenue, Boston. There is a clinic for children who have been ill with this disease.

Would massage help in a case of rheumatism? J. H. L.

I would advise you to try to determine the cause of the rheumatism—whether infected tonsils, teeth or some other underlying cause. When this is done, it will be easier for you to start a systematic course of treatment.

What can I do for constipation? M. G. H.

Eat oatmeal, bran bread, whole wheat bread, vegetables and salads, stewed prunes, fruits, and drink plenty of water. Avoid pastry and sweets. Take moderate exercise in the open air.

Have suffered from catarrh from the nose and throat. Have been using an alkaline solution. Have lost my sense of smell and also of taste. Also my eyes are weak. MRS. H. J.

It seems to me that if you have been to different nose and throat clinics and seen nose and throat specialists, that they are in a better position to give you advice than I would be. Evidently you are suffering from some chronic nose condition which may take patience and a long time to cure. Give the doctor who is treating you a fair trial.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

American workers are giving satisfactory service these days. One hears very few complaints from employers.

What are conditions in Europe?

Frankly, I felt depressed by what I saw and was told in Britain. Labor's political success appears to have gone to the heads of many organized workmen. This, and the after-effects of the war, form, I believe, the real explanation of the unsatisfactory attitude and action of British wage-earners at the present time.

Formerly, the worst enemy of labor efficiency and enterprise in Britain was drink. Drinking, however, has been greatly reduced. The saloons are now strictly regulated as to hours and selling to minors. They used to be kept open until far into the night and their output of "drunks" was rather shocking.

The Scots indulged in more hard drinking than the English, with the result that in the principal industrial cities the number of intoxicated persons one saw on the streets, particularly on Saturday evenings, was heartbreaking.

On my recent visit to Europe I saw as many "drunks" in Paris as I saw in Glasgow or London.

We in this country are constantly told that no intoxicated person is ever seen in France. That may have been true once. It isn't true today.

From what I could gather, gambling has become the most flagrant evil among the British working classes.

Stand at the exit of a large industrial plant when the whistle blows at noon, and you will see hundreds of workers rush to buy newspapers which make a specialty of furnishing all the latest racing tips and "dope." Then, bets are placed right and left, either on the spot or telegraphed to racing centres.

Most of the betting appears to be done by those least able to afford to lose. I made it my business, as I stated in a previous column, to spend most of my time talking in an informal, intimate, sociable way with the ordinary folks in the different countries visited.

Many a housewife and mother is today finding gambling as grave an enemy to the household's income as drink used to be.

Even among the farm laborers there is today quite a different attitude than there formerly was towards work. Farm laborers used to be, as a class, a steady-going, industrious, seriously-minded type of men. But they, too, are now more bent on chasing pleasures. Obviously their war experiences unsettled many of them. Weekly half-holidays were unknown in pre-war days on the farm, and most farm laborers rarely went pleasure-seeking except on Saturday evenings. All that is now changed.

I left Britain with the feeling that things have not been going and are not yet going well there. The rank and file of the people, speaking broadly, apparently do not realize that there is stern necessity for working unusually hard to repair the ravages caused by the cost of the war.

On the other hand, a trip through French territory, where the fighting and the destruction were fiercest, created a gratifying impression. Unimaginable progress has been made in rebuilding ruined villages and towns.

Germany's greatest hope lies in the attitude of her workers. The eight-hour day there has gone by the board. Labor unions are not dominating things, as they were in Britian. The Germans painfully realize that they must work with might and main to meet their heavy burdens.

In my humble opinion, the Germans will astonish the world by their industry and their recovery during the next ten years. They are settling down to pay the piper.

Looking away ahead, what does this portend?

It contains a warning to other nations to leave no stone unturned to increase their efficiency and productiveness.

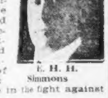
WAR ON STOCK FRAUDS IS PLEDGED

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

In his speech at Richmond, Va., complete co-operation between business and government in effort to rid the country of security swindlers was advocated by E. H. H. Simmons, president of New York Stock Exchange, before National Association of Securities Commissioners. He recommended strict enforcement of existing laws, and pledged continued support of the New York Stock Exchange in the fight against security frauds.



E. H. H. Simmons

Mr. Simmons outlined work of the Exchange in erecting safeguards for the investor, both as to securities dealt in and integrity of brokers. He dwelt on the strict supervision over listing of new securities and the requirement that adequate information be furnished stockholders periodically.

He further said in part: "Any species of fraud has long been prohibited among Stock Exchange members, and the rare cases when any evidence of unethical dealings has developed have been speedily and severely punished. The real problem with which legitimate firms and institutions that compose the centre and heart of Wall Street have regularly been confronted has been to drive out of business the swindling concerns which infest the edges of the financial centre. Security swindlers frequently attempt to appear in eyes of their victims as reputable Stock Exchange or private banking firms. They have succeeded sufficiently to create prejudice against legitimate firms and institutions of Wall Street throughout the country, and have done serious harm to legitimate American finance."

Rhode Island improved its export trade during the second quarter of 1924 by $392,155 and maintained its relative position of thirty-fourth place among the States of the Union in export trade, according to figures just released by the Department of Commerce.

With totals reaching $3,533,198, Rhode Island was but $49,416 behind Nebraska and $1,630,656 ahead of Wyoming, its nearest competitor. Other States in the wake of Rhode Island were Arizona and Maine. Of the leaders, the first ten States in order were: New York, Texas, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, California, Louisiana, Michigan, Illinois, Ohio and Massachusetts.

Cotton cloth shipments continued to lead the field with valuations of $503,888, an increase of $11,082 over the preceding quarter. Tools were second, amounting to $422,011, an advance in figures of $77,372 over the previous period. Other gains were noted in rubber thread exports from $234,565 to $313,310, and canvas shoes with rubber soles, from $162,012 to $236,419.

This is the second time in the history of government statistics, states Dr. Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, under whose charge the figures were prepared, that an attempt has been made to show the relative position of the different States in the never-ending struggle for export trade. It is planned to issue these figures quarterly.

promise to put some Republicans in jail if he is elected. The Republicans can't complain, for they tried to put him in jail a while ago.

LA FOLLETTE'S PARTY seems unnecessarily excited because forty odd and rejected members of the Roosevelt Bull Moose expedition have attacked La Follette. Nobody knows any of the forty odd, excepting George Ade, who probably joined the party for a joke.

The La Follette party is powerful and growing, because it seems about time for a third party. Parties can't last forever, especially when they are about alike and controlled by the same intelligent financial organizations.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT has signed the death warrant of a young colored woman who killed a colored policeman and pleaded self defence. She will be the first woman executed in the State of Pennsylvania in thirty-five years. Governor Pinchot signed the death warrant when he was in the hospital. When he comes out, entirely recovered, it may occur to him that putting a negress to death instead of locking her up is small business for a great State.

The question is not "Does she deserve death?" It is "Does Pennsylvania deserve disgrace?"

REPUBLICAN NEWSPAPERS indicate that Mr. Coolidge and his management ignore John W. Davis, and are concerned only with the race that La Follette is making.

It is difficult for the average mind to understand that. Mr. Davis probably will get the States to which he is "entitled" according to tradition in the South. There is a big vote that can't be taken from him. It seems to be quite certain that Mr. Davis will not run third in the number of votes cast, at all events.

A SMALL BOY, arrested for smashing a straw hat on a pedestrian's head, pleaded not guilty. "It's September 15, and I only did my duty," he told the judge. They let him go.

That's enlightening as regards the education of some American children.

BROAD UPWARD MOVEMENT IN NEW YORK

In trading on the New York Stock Exchange the broad upward movement in the industrial list during the morning suggested a resumption of the main advance.

Gains of 3 and 2⅜ points, respectively, by Baldwin and American Can testified to the urgency of the short covering. Advances of 1 to 3 points were common, although the rails, with the exception of the St. Louis Southwestern and Norfolk & Western issues, did not participate in the upswing.

New peak prices for the year were established by more than a dozen issues.

Best exhibitions of group strength were given by motor, rubber, food, tobacco and merchandising issues. Cuban Dominican Sugar jumped 5⅜ points, Manila Electric Railway 5¼ and Cushman and General Electric each extended their early gains to 4½ points.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

In Boston trading, American Pneumatic preferred receded from 14 to 12¾, reflecting the death of the company's president. Rutland Railroad preferred, which sold as high as 57¼ locally Tuesday, was off to 55 at the opening today, but quickly snapped back to 57. Continued speculative activity was manifest in some of the Boston & Maine issues, notably preferred "A" up a half-point to 25¼. The preferred "C" issue converted an advance of an eighth-point to 31⅛ into a loss when it reacted to 30½. The common sold at 17¼, up ¼.

HOME FOR INVALIDS

I HAVE in my rest home in Winchester, large double room where aged couple will receive conscientious care; trained nurse in attendance. Winchester 1612.

If farm boys knew that milking was a thing of the past, as it is when father raises beef instead of milk, not so many of them would be rushing off to the overcrowded city.

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1924

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

On the "beef" farm, cows and calves are turned out to pasture. Labor consists of caring for ensilage and field corn, the haying and harvestisg. Different proposition from a herd of dairy cows!

Gold Mines, Minute Man Investigator Says, in Every Pasture in the State of Maine!

A NEW ENGLAND Minute Man from Buffalo, New York, picks the middle of New England Week as a good time to call the attention of New Englanders to the existence of innumerable gold mines in the State of Maine.

The Pine Tree State, this gentleman declares, is capable of feeding all New England.

Its gold mines are its pasture lands.

The way to get the gold out is by raising beef cattle.

Philip R. Park, the gentleman from Buffalo, KNOWS there is gold in the pastures of Maine, he says, because he has taken some of it out and because he continues to take it out.

Born in Chelmsford, Massachusetts, about fifty years ago, Mr. Park long has been conspicuous among the foremost American manufacturers of poultry and livestock feeds. Measured by the standards of the city, his business life has been one of remarkable success, but all the time his heart has been in the country.

"The mark of success in the city," Mr. Park says, "too often is the dollar mark. The city, as a rule, does not ask HOW you got it, but HAVE you got it? The city does not inquire about the methods you pursued in order to reach the dollar throne, all it wants to know is that you have got there.

"In my opinion, success of that sort is cold, meaningless, empty."

For more than thirty years Mr. Park has been spending his vacations in Maine. He agrees with Booth Tarkington, William R. Pattangall, Ralph O. Brewster and ten thousand other boosters that there is no better place on earth.

"Some years ago," he says, "I began to take note of the increasing number of tenantless farms.

"The average business man, motoring through the country not far from the city or town in which his business is situated, and coming upon one of these vacant farms, conjures up a mental picture of the farmer who has 'up and quit,' sighs a sympathetic 'Poor devil!' and steps on the gas.

"In this, I believe the average business man is wrong.

"When the neighborhood farmer steps out, Mr. Nearby Business-Man is the worse off in three distinct ways.

"In the first place, the community has lost a producer who was bringing foodstuffs to the city. In the next place, the business man has lost a customer. Finally, the community has lost a taxpayer, whose burden now must be apportioned among those who remain."

Six years ago, Mr. Park began picking up an occasional farm or two, in and around the town of Jefferson in Lincoln County, about twenty miles east of Augusta, on the road to Rockland. Today, he owns six of them.

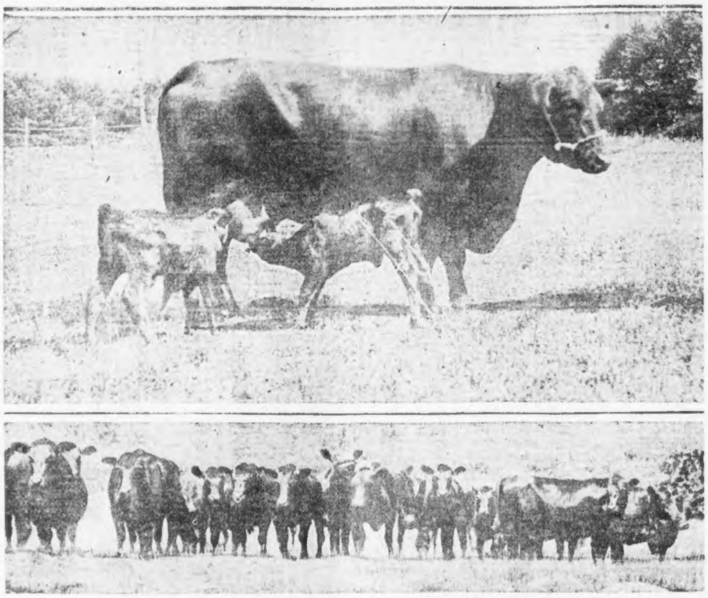
These were not "abandoned" farms, in the usual sense of the term, but they were farms the former owners of which were ready to leave at the first inviting offer.

When the "city fellow" announced his determination to enter upon the business of raising beef cattle on these farms his few neighbors smiled knowingly. They knew it could not be done, successfully. Maine is a dairy State. Beef comes in from the West. But the only way to deal with these Smart Alecks from the city is give them plenty of rope. Don't it beat all!

Park decided to experiment with polled Aberdeen or Angus, or, as they used to be called in their native Scotland, "doddies."

Inferior to none as all round beef-cattle, and in some respects superior to all others, the polled Aberdeen-Angus makes its main appeal to the butcher in the excellent quality of its beef and in its high percentage of dead meat to live weight. "Polled" means that it is without horns.

The average small farmer in that part of Maine milks six or eight scrub cows—sometimes even fewer—and puts in half his day driving ten miles to the railroad station with his milk or cream and then home again.



Aberdeen-Angus Gold Mine, Jefferson, Me.

"You can't raise beef cattle in this part of the country," some of these farmers said to Park. "Oh, you might raise them of course, but if you do, you can't market them." "Even if you market them, you won't be able to get Western prices."

And, to get right down to the nub of the story without unnecessary delay, the fact is that on Jefferson Farms Mr. Philip R. Park and his associates have done not only all these things that could NOT be done, but have built up a local demand for home-grown baby beef far in excess of the supply now available—and at a liberal advance over the ruling prices for Western beef.

"I call the pasture lands of Maine gold mines," Mr. Park says, "because while they are going to waste, or are offered at ridiculous prices, I have demonstrated that beef can be made on them at a cost of one cent a pound. In the Summer season, the cost is LESS than one cent.

"We are offered all the outside pasturage we want at from $1 to $3 per head, for the season. Think of it!

"The only problem in Maine is the Winter care of the herd; silos and ensilage take care of that.

"More than 50 per cent. of all the farms in Maine, in my opinion, are better adapted to beef than to milk production.

"If the farmer will not listen to me as a farmer, he may give some heed when I speak as an authority on feed and when I tell him that the first article of the new gospel in New England farming must be the raising of more corn. The Eastern farm has gone back by just so far as the Eastern farmer has got away from the raising of corn.

"My first advice to the New England farmer, then, is to RAISE MORE CORN.

"And what is the best thing to do with that corn?

"Answer—feed it to GOOD cattle.

"If the individual farmer is happily situated in a district where the returns from milk are good he should be in the milk business.

"But 90 per cent. of the farmers of New England are NOT so situated. Fully 50 per cent. of them can grow beef to much better advantage. How many State of Maine farmers, for example, know that the people of Maine pay $1,250,000 every month for Western beef?

"'CAN the East compete with the West in beef production?'

"That is not the question at all. The question is, can the West compete with the East?

"No section of the country has ALL the advantages. We talk too much about our short Summer and our long Winter. How about the long droughts the Westerner has to contend with? How about the terrible flies, the ticks and the other things that make life miserable for the Western steer?

"Once the Eastern producer has educated his market to the quality of really choice young beef he will find that a strong factor in his favor is PROXIMITY TO THE MARKET.

"There are many methods of beef production. The question is which is best adapted to the locality.

"Take, for example, a 20-cow dairy on a well managed farm FAR from milk or cream routes.

"Instead of continuing the production of milk at a loss, on such a place, I would breed the entire herd to an Angus, a short-legged, blocky Hereford or a Shorthorn bull.

"Let the calves come in the Spring. Let them run with the dams on pasture all Summer, twice every day giving them such ground corn and oats, or other rations, as they will consume. AT THE AGE OF TEN MONTHS THEY SHOULD WEIGH FROM 600 TO 900 POUNDS AND COMMAND THE HIGHEST OF BEEF PRICES.

"Under this system, observe, no steers are carried through the Winter. The crop is marketed within the year. There is only one time in an animal's life when it can be grown cheaply. That is while it is young. And there is NO combination of grains that will fatten an animal as fast as grain with MILK TAKEN DIRECT FROM THE COW.

"About 47 per cent. of the cows of New England are 'boarder' cows.

"I mean by that that 47 per cent. of our cows produce so little milk that their owners lose money on every pound they produce, at the same time so depressing the market that they make it impossible for any except the HIGHEST producers to return a profit.

"What is the remedy for that condition?

"I say it is to either eliminate the boarder cow or find a job for her.

"What job can we put her to? Is there anything she CAN do?

"Yes, rearing milk-fed baby beef.

"How?

"Breed her to an Angus bull—or a Hereford or Shorthorn—let her calve before she goes to grass and let the calf run with her on pasture until Fall.

"A few years ago, only 4-year-old and 5-year-old steers were considered good beef. A little later, the 2-year-old had the call. During the war, the yearling took the lead. Now, we are witnessing a still further decline in weight and lowering of the age to the 10-months-old calf.

"There is nothing finer imaginable, in the way of beef, than the calf still getting milk from its mother, together with grain. Top quality, indeed, and, other things being equal, produced more cheaply than any other kind of beef that finds its way to the American dinner-table.

"Such calves should bring from $80 to $125.

"No more milking of scrubs, no fussing with cooling, no washing of milk pails, no driving to the railroad station every day with half a load—and so much more time for profitable work about the farm!

"We hear all manner of theories and stories and remedies in these days of dire distress in the milk industry, but I say, from observation and experience, that the trouble is TOO MUCH MILK.

"The remedy is BEEF.

"The Eastern farmer would be a long distance ahead of the farmer of the West if it were not for the jam in the milk situation. He is not asking Government aid in the marketing of his crops or for the support of broken-down banks. If it were not for the milk situation, indeed, our Eastern farmer would be sitting pretty, his face adorned by a smile a mile wide.

"The New England farmer should investigate his opportunities in beef.

"The EAST must awaken to the task of feeding itself. Livestock keeping is its only salvation."

CITY LIFE and COUNTRY LIFE

THE city with its high wages is attractive, but let us analyze the situation.

Take one hundred city men at the age of twenty--five, and forty years later thirty-six of them are dead, fifty-four are dependent upon others, five are holding jobs by sufferance, four are comfortably well off and one is rich.

The country boy may think that if he goes to the city he will be the rich man, or at least one of the four who are comfortably well off, but I say that if he has the ability he can win greater success in the country.

And what IS success?

The mark of success in the city is likely to be the dollar mark. If your friends measure you by the Dun or Bradstreet standard, however, they will drop you by the same token. Dollar friends are not assets, but liabilities; they are all right in fair weather, but they are not there in a storm.

The city may bring a host of acquaintances; the country cultivates friends.

Life in the city is largely artificial; sham, gilt, tinsel. Your dealings are with men whose ambition—whose very god—is Money; and their characters will have much to do with shaping yours.

Compare such empty success with the success of man of equal, or even less ability, in the country. He may not be worth half as much, in dollars and cents, but he is surrounded by neighbors, he has friends all over the county, perhaps all over the State. His life is a continuous vacation. It is lived where the city man's mind is turned ever and always.

—PHILIP R. PARK.
